A ROYAL MARRIAGE.

The Gay Capital of Russia in Festal Trim.

Celebration of the Nuptials of the Grand Duke Vladimir and Grand Duchess Maria Paulovna—The Gorgeous Surroundings of the Hymeneal Event—The Pomp and Pageantry of the Russian Court.

The Engagement.

ST. PETERSBURG, August 27.—The Russian capital is now in a whirl of excitement over the marriage of His Imperial Highness Vladimir Alexandrovitch to Her Grand Ducal Highness Marie Paulovna, daughter of the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. The affair was arranged a few months ago, as all such affairs are arranged in families of blue blood, not because the parties to be united care a straw for each other, but because it was necessary that Vladimir should be married to somebody, and that somebody must belong to one of the Imperial, Royal or Grand Ducal families of Europe. When his august brother, Alexander, was of marrying age, seven years ago, it was necessary that he should marry the daughter of a King or Grand Duke, and the choice fell upon the Princess Dagmar, daughter of the King of Denmark. She had been previously engaged to the elder Brother of Alexander, but the elder brother died and left his betrothed as a heritage to his successor. Such a proceeding would hardly be considered "regular" among plebians, but is entirely in the mode when you get among the crowned heads. The wedding to be solemnized is not a union of individuals, but of titles and positions. All those homely notions of two souls with but a single thought, and all that sort of thing, must be set aside by heads that wear crowns. Imperial and royal personages cannot always do as they please, especially in such trifles as marrying and settling down for life.

First Meeting of the Royal Lovers.

Two weeks ago I happened on the Russian frontier and found the station at Werballen dressed with flags and lively with officers in brilliant uniforms. A dozen imperial carriages were on the track at one side of the building, and servants were hurrying about with an air of great importance. As the time for the arrival of the train drew near the gay personages on the platform drew themselves into a double line from the doorway to the plank that overhung the track, and presently the locomotive came screaming over the border. Vladimir, the hero of the scene, stepped from the doorway and greeted the woman who was to be his bride. He has a tendency to stoutness, more so than his father or his elder brother, and future years, with the good living which he can afford, will doubtless give him the figure of a beer barrel. His face is round, full and unwhiskered, and bears a pleasing expression. I like his features better than those of the Czarevitch, and he is generally commended for his good temper and amiability. In his gay uniform he presented a marked contrast to the plainly-dressed woman that stepped from the railway carriage. She was clad like any common traveler of her age and sex, and might readily be taken for an English governess or a German ladies' maid. She is pretty without being handsome. She met the Grand Duke with a smile of either genuine or well counterfeited pleasure, and took his offered arm without any appearance of hesitation. As he led her into the station a badly trained band discoursed some atrocious music, which was continued with very brief intervals during the stay of the party. After lunch the lady was escorted to the train, and the party moved off in the direction of the capital.

Fairy Splendor.

The bride was brought, not to St. Petersburg, but to the palace at Tsarskoe Selo, the celebrated resort of Catharine II., about fifteen miles west of the capital. There she was met by the Emperor or Empress, and other members of the Imperial family, and there she was made as comfortable as possible until to day. One night last week the grounds at Tsarskoe Selo were illuminated, and there was a public announcement of the event, so that many persons went thither from the city. I have never seen a prettier illumination anywhere, nor a grander one without pyrotechnics. I believe there were half a dozen rockets or so, but I did not see them, and certainly they were not a prominent feature of the display. Near the palace there is a lake. It is not a large one, as I was able to walk around it in half an hour, and that without hurrying. All around the lake, close to the water's edge, lights were placed within twenty inches of each other, and following the sinuosities of the bank. There is an island in the lake, and there is a sort of column or lighthouse near the island. Then there is a bath-house and a boat house; there is a Chinese temple on a promontory, and there is a large pavilion that would cut up into a hotel capable of holding one hundred persons, without putting more than two in a bed. Island, column, temple, boat-house, bath-house and pavilion are covered with lights; lights were hung in the trees, and strung along the paths and through the grounds. There were electric lights in several places, and the end of the palace was brought into full relief by several very luminous torches. The boats on the lake were covered with lights, and at nine o'clock the Imperial party came from the palace to the pavilion, and took a row around the lake. Marie, the betrothed, was on the arm of the Emperor.

The Magnificent Street Pageant.

To day was devoted to the ceremony of bringing the bride to the city. The weather of late has been bad; much rain, with altogether more chilliness in the atmosphere than is agreeable, created misgivings about the solemn entry. The morning promised well, but promises of that sort do not amount to much in a country where it can rain any time without a moment's notice. The arrangement was for the Imperial party to leave Tsarskoe Selo at noon; the ride to the city would take about half an hour, and then there was a distance of two miles from the station to the Winter Palace, which would take an hour or two to pass.

The troops formed a double hedge all the way from the Winter Palace to the station, and there could not have been fewer than 30,000 of them altogether. Infantry was on the right of the line of march and cavalry on the left.

By 11 o'clock the circulation of carriages along the line of march was interdited, and by 12 o'clock pedestrians were forbidden to cross. Back of the lines of troops the sidewalks were loaded with waiting crowds, and every window, balcony, and other point affording a good view of the route where the cortege would pass was crowded with spectators. Enterprising individuals had erected stands at various points, and in some of them the best places commanded four or five roubles each. Barrels and boxes were called into requisition, and from my window I could see a drayman, whom the police had turned into a side street, letting out his vehicle at 50 copecks a head to such as wished to stand upon it. The street was cleared just as the head of the column turned into the Nevski. As the procession came at a walk into the Nevski the sun came out from the clouds and shone approvingly down; the helmets and armor of the guards, the gold on the carriages, the rich housings of the horses, the uniforms and decorations of the officers, the lances and sabres of the cavalry, the rifles of the infantry, the rich livery of the lackeys, all glittled and sparkled in the sunlight, and presented a dazzling appearance. The golden dome of St. Isaac's Cathedral burned like a great ball of fire, and the silver dome of the Church of Kazan shone with a brightness like that of the full moon in the clearest night of the Arctic Circle. Had the sun remained in the clouds until the procession had passed, the pageant would have been a grand one, but blazing out just as the advancing column filled the Nevski, the effect was magnificent in the extreme.

The "Happy Pair."

The expectant bride rode with the Empress in a glided carriage, drawn by eight horses. The carriage occupied a place about the center of the long pageant. The sides and front of the carriage were of glass and through this glass both of the ladies were distinctly visible. There was a steady hum and roar of applause as they moved along and they responded to it by bowing or rather nodding continually, now to one side of the street and now to the other. The face of the Empress has a care-worn appearance in spite of the smiles that lighted it. She is tall and thin and bears no resemblance to the portly figure of the Queen of England. The bride had a pleased but, at the same time, a slightly scared look. The bride was on the right-hand seat of the carriage, and a little behind and to her right was the Emperor, mounted on a superb horse. In the corresponding position on the other side of the carriage was the bridegroom, Vladimir, and between the two, a yard or so in the rear, were the Czarevitch and the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. Then came Alexis and the other sons of the Emperor, and then numerous grand dukes and Princes. Then there came aides-de-camp in goodly but disorderly array, and then the carriage containing in the world, that of the woman who is expected to be one day the Empress of Russia. More Cossacks, more guards; some carriages containing ladies of honor followed, and finally the rear was brought up by a squadron of dragoons of the Imperial Guard. And the people crowded into the street behind the dragoons; the hedge on each side was broken, and the troops marched off to their barracks. The filling of the street by the populace was like the bursting of a flood. The cortege halted at the Kazan Church, which the Imperial family and the bride entered for purposes of Divine supplication. They did not stay there over a quarter of an hour, and were en route again with little delay and continued their journey to the Winter Palace. As they entered the spacious doorway and disappeared the great pageant was ended with the thunder of the guns from the fortress on the other bank of the Neva. To-morrow is appointed for the wedding.

The Wedding Day.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—The city was gayly decorated not only on the line of march, but on all the principal streets. Of course the Russian colors were predominal, and sometimes along two or three blocks no other flag could be seen than that of the great nation of the north. The German flag was also prominently displayed. Now and then a French or Austrian flag fluttered from a window, and on one building there was a profusion of bunting that proved on inspection to be the complete system of signals in Marryat's Code. The city was illuminated last night, but the affair was not noteworthy for brilliancy or grandeur.

At eight o'clock this morning five shots from the cannon of the fortress where Peter the Great lies buried, announced, as the official programme has it, "La celebration du mariage de Son Altesse Imperiale Monseigneur le Grand Duc Vladimir Alexandrovitch avec Son Altesse Grande Ducale Madame la Duchesse Marie de Mecklenbourg Schwerin." About eleven o'clock the persons invited to the wedding began to assemble at the Palace, and as I did not want to come late, I was there ahead of the crowd.

The Winter Palace at St. Petersburg is one of the finest residences in Europe. Pretty nearly all that money could do was done to make the palace a magnificent one, and when it is remembered that the edifice was completed in fifteen months (after a conflagration in 1837), the astonishment of the visitor is proportionally increased. To day people wander up and down the halls, look at the furniture, pictures and frescoing, criticise the dress of those near them, gather in little groups, talk of the wealthier or anything else, greet acquaintances, receive introductions, and do in fact pretty much what they do elsewhere in gatherings of a social character. If we are in the Alexander Hall, we are politely requested to walk into the chapel, and there we are ranged in a line according to our rank and dignity, and left to wait the arrival of the Imperial procession. If we are in any one of the other halls we are invited to the chapel, but we stand and stroll about, as before described, and after a while we hear a cannon booming from the fortress. There is a buzz and a hush of silence, and then along comes the Master of Ceremonies with his staff of office. The assemblage opens to the right and left, in stately dignity comes the Imperial family behind. Between the Master of Ceremonies and there is an array of gaudily dressed chamberlains, marshals of the household, gentlemen of the chamber, and the like. Behind them walk the Emperor and Empress, the former in the uniform of a General of the Guard and wearing the Grand Cross of St. Andrew, and the latter in Russian costume with a yellow train—silk woven with gold—supported by four chamberlains. Then comes the Minister of the household of the Emperor and an Aide-de-Camp General, and then the Czarevitch, and his graceful wife, then the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Mechlenburg-Schwerin, and then the bridal pair. The bride wore her Grand Ducal crown, and was dressed like most brides, in white, with a mantle of pink velvet—or, as a Russian lady called it, velours cramoisi double d'hermine, and with a train in which silver took the place of the gold in that of the Empress. The train was supported by four chamberlains, and borne by the Master of the Court of the bridegroom. The bride, like the Empress and the Czarevna, had a profusion of the finest point lace about her head, and there was enough lace in the party to make the fortune of an ordinary dealer.

Following these came the rest of the Royal household in proper order. The chapel is small, so that not more than a fifth or sixth of the persons invited to the Palace are able to witness the ceremony. Everybody stands in a Russian church, Emperor and peasant alike. While the ceremony goes on it would be impolite to move, and no matter how great the fatigue we must endure it as best we can.

The Marriage Ceremony.

The Metropolitan of the Holy Orthodox Church of Russia meets the Emperor in front of the altar as the latter separates from the Empress, who steps to the right hand while he steps slightly to the left. It is the duty of the Emperor to kiss the hand of the Metropolitan; he does it gracefully, and as he does so the high priest of the church kisses the Emperors' hand in return. Then the Emperor makes the customary bow before the altar, and the marriage follows after the form of the Russian Church. The Emperor leads the couple to the elevated place before the altar, and then returns to his proper place on the floor of the chapel. The service begins at once and proceeds solemnly to the end. The prayers are read and intoned, and the rich chant of the choir fills the chapel and rolls away through to the halls of the Palace, until lost in the distance. At the proper moment step forward the Grand Duke Alexis and the brother of the bride. The former holds the crown over the head of Marie and the latter the crown over the head of Vladimir. It is tiresome work, and the Grand Ducal arms soon show signs of weariness, and there is a shifting of hands. But not for a moment do the crowns get out of position until the time comes for resting them on the heads of the pair.

When the [illegible] the fortress [illegible] dred. The [illegible] to the Emp[illegible] the services [illegible] Clergy and the Holy Synod are extended to Vladimir and his bride. Near the end of his prayers the Master of Ceremonies request the Corps Diplomatique to proceed to the Alexander Hall, where is to be celebrated. The bride has not changed her religion in order to enter the Russian family; she is not expected to be the mother of a prince who can never inherit the throne, and therefore the same necessity did not exist in her case as that of the Princess Dagmar when about to marry the Czarevitch. She remains a Lutheran, and therefore the ceremony of to-day was a double one.

We wait some time in the Alexander Hall, which contains a simple altar placed there during our absence. Our waiting is caused by the congratulations to the married pair, and so we enter into conversation once more, and move about a little to the advantage of our stiffened limbs. Then comes the premonitory "s-s-h." We become silent and take our places, and soon we see the staff of the master of ceremonies with its bearer, and then the cortege as before. The Lutheran service is performed in German, the Imperial parents and the stepmother of the bride kisses her, says something in a low voice and reluctantly leaves her. As the new wife takes the hand of her young husband, she cannot keep back the tears that fill her eyes, tears that continue to flow as the procession reforms in the same order as it entered, files out of the chapel, and through the other halls to the Imperial apartments where it began to march two hours before. The ceremony is over, and we can leave the palace at our leisure.

OUR TIDIOUTE LETTER.

TIDIOUTE, September, 16, 1874.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

The new M. E church of this place was dedicated on the 13th inst, and Rev. Dr. Ives, Bishop Peck were the officiants at the dedicatory services. The day was extremely warm, but notwithstanding the Sacred edifice was so full that standing room was scarce. The balance due on the building was eight thousand five hundred dollars. Dr. Ives put on one of his most winning smiles and said the amount must be forthcoming, and such were the persuasive power of his words and manner that the congregation [illegible] that Tidioute is bankrupt.

In the Chronicle of the 7th, I saw a report of a trip made by two Pittsburghers, in some kind of a mud scow, from Port Alleghany, N. Y., via Tidioute and Oil city to Pittsburgh, and in their jottings they pitch into Mine Host, little Perry Shaw, about the way they were received at the Shaw house, by the clerk. They dwell particularly on the pleasant countenance of "a crooked shank, sharp-nosed un-shaven six footer," who was acting as clerk. The facts are the knights of the ashen oars strode into the office as if they were monarchs of all they surveyed. The "sharp-nosed clerk" took them for noble red men from the cornplanter's reservation. Now the acting clerk's name is Billy Waller, and Billy is boss of room No. 199, which is a large attic, and as they always assign stragglers to room 199, Billy thought he would put up a job to get rid of them, as he did not want to waller with any cornplanter cattle such a warm night, and if he did anything he was sorry for, I am sure he must now be glad of it. So the said knights of the oars wended their way to the Empire Hotel where they registered their names "G. T. Muller and Jas. Reinhart, from Port Alleghany to Pittsburgh."

The September term of Court was in session last week at Warren, our county town, greatly to the disgust of the saloonists of this place. This is a local option county, but some of the saloonists continue to sell tanglefoot between the terms of Court. One Green was arrested some three times and always gave bonds, went home and went at the same business; but he was brought to grief at last. When brought before the Court he was only fined three hundred dollars and costs, making in all five hundred and thirteen dollars. In default of scrip, he took up his abode in Sheriff Davis' hotel, but not liking the board he raised the collateral and settled up with the Sheriff and went his way, a wiser if not a better man.

In my last I spoke of several bachelors, who on account of the advance of ten cents per barrel on oil, would soon follow in the footsteps of Ingram. I will have to take it back, for as the greasy fluid has declined a few cents, they have all postponed their engagements to some future time except C. Berner, who met his fate like a hero, and the Boys, to show their respect for a man who was not afraid to emigrate to the state of matrimony with oil at the low price of seventy cents, took the Rescue Cornet Band and surprised him with a first class serenade. Yesterday Ingram arrived home from his bridal tour, looking as happy as if there was but one little world and he was sole proprietor. Next.

The Wheat Crop.

The September returns of the Department of Agriculture indicate an average condition of the wheat crop of 93 against 95 in September, 1873. The average crop is 7 per cent. greater than last year, which would bring the aggregate yield to nearly an average on last year's acreage.

LOUISIANA.

The Rebellion Ended.

The Insurgents Surrender Ingloriously.

A Conflict with Federal Troops Declined.

Captured Arms and Property Returned.

A Military Governor Appointed for New Orleans.

Protest from McEnery to Gen. Emory.

The Insurgent Leaders Interviewed.

NEW YORK, September 17.—A dispatch from New Orleans, dated at midnight last night, states that Emory has just concluded a two hours' interview with Governor McEnery, Lieutenant Governor Penn, Robert H. Marr and Duncan F. Cage. In conversation he informed them that the State administration must be restored to its original position, the arms taken from the State Arsenal restored, and that the statutes, previous to the revolution, must again be resumed. He guaranteed freedom from arrest for those engaged in the recent outbreak, and peace throughout every part of the State. The gentlemen, in reply, stated that they would instantly submit to any such demand from the Federal Government, impressing it upon the General that no show of force was necessary. They insisted that neither Kellogg nor his Government could hold one inch of Louisiana territory one instant, but acknowledged not only their inability, but total lack of desire, to resist the mandate of the National Executive.

Reinforcements for Gen. Emory.

WASHINGTON, September 17.—Orders have been issued to the Twenty-second Regiment infantry to proceed to New Orleans. Three war vessels have been ordered to proceed from Key West at once.

The excitement here has somewhat subsided, and it is not believed in official circles that the Penn party will offer any resistance to the Government forces under any circumstances. Orders have also been issued for the troops in Fortress Monroe to hold themselves in readiness. General McDowell is gathering up such forces as can be spared form his department for service in Louisiana. It is supposed that about five thousand troops can be concentrated in Louisiana within a week or ten days.

Monday's Casualties.

ST. LOUIS, September 17.—The Democrat's New Orleans special says: Thirty persons were killed and one hundred wounded in that city on Monday. Many outrages and insults to Northern men are reported, and some have been ordered to leave the State. During the fight on Monday, several White Leaguers appeared in the Confederate uniform and carried the Confederate flag. The Tax Collector's office of the Sixth district has been entered and the safe blown open.

Surrender of the Insurgent Government.

NEW ORLEANS, September 17.—There has been a consultation to-day at the State House between the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and officers of the lawful administration, together with a number of prominent citizens, to receive and consider certain propositions of General Emory. These propositions demand the retirement of all armed men from the streets and the return of the arms to the arsenal. These propositions have been acceded to, as will be seen by the following order:

The War Ended.

The war is over, as shown by the following:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, }
NEW ORLEANS, La, Sept. 17, 1874. }

CIRCULAR.

Jno. McEnery and D. B. Penn, styling themselves respectively "Governor" and "Lieutenant Governor" of the State of Louisiana, having informed the Department Commander of their willingness under the President's proclamation to surrender the State property now in their possession, and to disband the insurgent forces under their command, Brevet Brigadier General J. R. Brooke, Lieutenant Colonel Third Infantry, is charged with the duty of taking possession of the arms and other State property. He will occupy the State House, arsenal and other State buildings until further orders. He is hereby appointed to command the city of New Orleans until such time as the State and city Governments can be reorganized. The present police force in the city, under charge of Thos. Boylan, will remain on duty, and be responsible for the good order and quiet of the city until regularly relieved.

By command of Colonel and Brevet Major General W. H. Emory.

LUKE O'REILLY,
Captain Nineteenth Infantry and A. D. C.

Protest from McEnery.

Governor McEnery held a council at the State House, which, after a long consultation and discussion, determined upon the following letter to be addressed to General Emory, embodying a protest and remonstrance against the position assumed by him in the private interview held with him last evening:

NEW ORLEANS, September 17, 1874.—General W. H. Emory, commanding the Department of the Gulf, New Orleans.—General: We have the honor to submit that since our interview last night we have carefully considered the subject then informally discussed, and have concluded to address you in writing, protesting that there does not now exist in the State of Louisiana [illegible] now peaceably at their respective abodes and quietly pursuing their usual avocations under the protection of the law; that there is no trace or vestige remaining of the late usurpation of which Wm. Pitt Kellogg was the head, and there is but one Government in existence in the State of Louisiana, which is the government elected and chosen by the people in November, 1872, and legally installed in 1873, of which Jno. McEnery is Governor and D. B. Penn Lieutenant Governor; that in all the parishes and throughout the State of Louisiana this government is recognized, and is supported and adhered to and respected and obeyed by the people, and is both de jure and de facto, the moral of the State of Louisiana in possession and in the actual exercise of all the Government's functions; that if we are compelled by the military force of the United States (which have neither the power nor the inclination to resist) to retire from and abandon the Governmental power and authority, rightfully, and, in fact, vested in us in our respective capacities, there is no Government of the State which can take our place, and that it will be necessary in some form and by some instrumentality to infuse life into the effectually dead and extinct usurping Government of which Wm. Pitt Kellogg was the head and chief, under the assumed title of Governor. Nevertheless, having been informed by you that no alternative was left to us but to comply immediately with the proclamation of the President of the date of the 15th or September, 1874, or subject ourselves and our people to the actual exercise of the military force, which means war on the part of the Government against the State and the people of that State, exhibiting no armed opposition and no hostility to the Government of the United States, we respectfully invite your attention to the law and the terms of the proclamation of the President. By Article IV. of the Constitution of the United States it is declared the United States shall, on application of the Legislature, etc., or the Executive, etc., protect each State against domestic violence. A part of the authority which this article imposed upon the United States, which means necessarily the entire Government, was imposed upon the President, the head of the Government, by the act of Congress of February 28th, 1795, (Statutes at Large, Vol. 1, page 424) You will perceive that while the Constitution (Article IV) is a guarantee by the United States to each State against domestic violence, the act of Congress restricts Executive interference to cases in which there is an insurrection in a State against the Government thereof. One of the prerequisites is an application to the President by the Executive when the Legislature cannot be convened. The act of the 31st of March, 1807, section 1 (Statutes at Large, vol. 2, page 413) authorizes the President to employ such part of the land or naval force of the United States as shall be judged necessary to suppress insurrection in a State against the Government thereof, having first observed all the prerequisites of the law. Now, if any such application was made by William Pitt Kellogg, he was not the Governor of Louisiana. On Monday, September 14th, 1874, he left the State House and retired to the Custom House, where he is now and has been continuously since Monday, and at 9 o'clock on Tuesday the State House was in possession of the present existing Government. In order that there should be an insurrection in a State against the Government thereof, there must be a Government against which opposition and insurrection exists, which is not true now, and has not been true in Louisiana at any time since 9 o'clock on Tuesday, September 15th, 1874. But when all the other conditions exist, before the President can employ any part of the land or naval force he must, by proclamation, command the insurgents to disperse and to retire peaceably to their respective abodes within a limited time. The proclamation has been issued, and the time has been limited to five days. Now, we protest that this proclamation does not apply to us or to the people of Louisiana. But even in a case where the necessary conditions exist, an insurrection in a State against the Government thereof, and a proper application to the President, he cannot employ any part of the land or naval force until the expiration of the time limited by him in his proclamation. We distinctly announce to you that in any movement you may make to suppress our Government, that there shall in no case be interposed any armed or forcible resistance on our part to the military forces of the United States under your command. We will occupy the State House and other State property in this city until the appearance and occupation of the same by the authorities of the Government of the United States, when we shall retire, knowing we have surrendered the same alone to the Government of the United States.

JOHN MCENERY, Governor.
D. B. PENN, Lieutenant Governor.

The Final Surrender.

At 6 P. M., in accordance with arrangements previously made, Gen. J. R. Brooke, accompanied by Lieutenants Wallace and Rae, went to the Executive office at the St. Louis Hotel. Immediately upon the entrance of General Brooke, Gov's. McEnery and Penn advanced, and shaking hands with him, introduced the three Federal officers to a number of prominent citizens present. Governor McEnery then stated to Gen. Brooke that he gave him possession of the State Capital and other State buildings within the limits of the city. General Brooke merely bowed in acceptance, and the Governor read to him the following address:

McEnery's Address to Gen. Brooke.

General Brooke: As the lawful and Acting Governor of this State, I surrender to you, as the representative of the Government of the United States, the Capital and the remainder of the property of this city belonging to the State. This surrender is in response to a formal demand of General Emory for such surrender, or to accept as an alternative the levying of war upon our Government by the military forces of the United States under his command. As I have already said to General Emory, we have neither the power nor the inclination to resist the Government of the United States.

Sir: I transfer to you the guardianship of the rights and liberties of the people of the State, and I trust and believe that you will give protection to all classes of our citizens, ruled and ruined by a corrupt usurpation presided over by Mr. Kellogg. Our people could bear the wrongs, tyranny, annoyance and insults of that usurpation no longer, and they arose in their might, swept them from existence, and installed in authority the rightful Government, of which I am the head. All lovers of liberty throughout the Union must admit the patriotism that aroused our people to act as one man and throw off the yoke of this odious usurpation. I know for a soldier you have but to obey the orders of the Government of the United States, but I feel that you will temper your military control of affairs with moderation, and in all things exhibit that integrity of purpose characteristic of officers of the army. I now turn over to you, sir, the capital and other property of the State under my charge.

JOHN MCENERY.

At the conclusion of this address General Brooke was seated in the office, and required from Lieutenant Governor Penn a statement of all records, &c., which were in the building when they took possession.

Exit McEnery and His Followers.

Governor McEnery and his followers then withdrew, leaving the capital of Louisiana in possession of the military officers of the Federal Government.

At 7 P. M. two companies of the Third Infantry marched down and were quartered in the building. Colonel Thomas Boylon, McEnery's Chief of Police, remains on duty with his force. The city is very quiet.

Accepting the Situation.

McEnery and Penn have issued an address to the people advising cheerful obedience to the constituted authorities.

The Terms of the Surrender not Satisfactory.

WASHINGTON, September 17.—Republican Louisianians here are not pleased with the terms of the surrender, as Boylan, appointed by Penn as Chief of Police, remains in office, and [illegible] White League organization. They regard the arrangement as a compromise, and think that [illegible]

Universalist Convention in New York.

NEW YORK, September 17.—The proceedings of the Universalist Convention were opened this morning with prayer. The Conference business meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Gen. Olney Arnold, of Rhode Island. Resolutions were passed deprecating the holding of services by the members in any other churches during the sessions of this body, as it is likely to attract delegates from this Convention, and as also being in direct opposition to an article of the by-laws. A resolution was also adopted recognizing the opportunity afforded of serving the church and parishes in New Orleans, and recommending the Board of Trustees to appropriate $2,500 for the needs of the society in that city, with leave to extend further aid if required, and that such sum was hereby appropriated.

The committee to whom was referred the report of the board of trustees submitted the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The women of our Church have practically demonstrated, with pen, voice, and a great variety of good service, their loyalty and capacity to co-operate with men in accomplishing all the Church contemplates; therefore,

Resolved, That it be the established policy of this Convention to exclude no person from its Board of Trustees, from any office in the General Committee now existing, or that it may create, on account of sex, and that it be its established policy to encourage the existence of no organization composed exclusively of men or women.

Episcopal Convention in Chicago.

CHICAGO, September 17.—The Episcopal Convention reassembled at 9:30 this morning. After the usual religious exercises the testimony of the Bishop elect was read and signed, occupying the entire morning session.

The Austrian North Pole Expedition.

NEW YORK, September 17.—According to the accounts in late London journals, the Austrian North Pole Expedition was frozen in at the north point of Nova Zembla in August, 1872, and was driven in a northwesterly direction with the ice. The crew worked five months in vain during the summer of 1873 to free the ship. In the autumn of that year, north of eighty degrees of latitude, unknown land was discovered, whose boundary line to the north and west was not to be seen. A thin line was explored in sledges from the 9th of March to the 4th of May, 1874, up to the eighty-third degree. In honor of the Emperor of Austria, this was named Franz Joseph Land. There were no signs of animal life. On the 20th of May, 1874, the crew left the ship Tegethoff in four sledges, and after traveling ninety-six days, reached Nova Zembla, where they met with some Russian seamen, and were taken to Wardoe, in Norway, after undergoing indescribable sufferings and privations.

POLITICAL.

New York Democratic State Convention.

SYRACUSE, September 17.—The Democratic Convention resumed its session this morning, and ex-Governor Seymour, from the Committee on Resolutions, made the following report:

The Democratic party of New York pledge themselves anew to the principles set forth in their platform adopted last year at Utica, approved by the votes of the people of the Empire State, and endorsed by the Democrats of Illinois, Michigan, Maine and other States of the Union.

First—Gold and silver, the only legal tender, no currency inconvertible with coin.

Second—Steady steps towards specie payments; no steps backward.

Third—Honest payment of the public debt in coin; sacred preservation of the public faith.

Fourth—Revenue reform. Federal taxation for revenue only. No Government partnership with protected monopolies.

Fifth—Home rule to limit and localize most zealously the few powers entrusted to the public servants, municipal, State and Federal; no centralization.

Sixth—Equal and exact justice to all men; no partial legislation; no partial taxation.

Seventh—A free press; no gag law.

Eighth—Free men; uniform excise laws; no sumptuary laws.

Ninth—Official accountability enforced by better civil and criminal remedies; no private use of public funds by public officers.

Tenth—Corporations chartered by the State always supervisable by the State in the interests of the people.

Eleventh—The party in power responsible for legislation while in power.

Twelfth—The Presidency a public trust, not a private perquisite; no third term.

Thirteenth—Economy in public expense, that labor may be lightly burdened.

The Democrats of New York in Convention assembled, recognizing the independence and patriotism of the Liberal Republicans, who, preferring principles to party, shall unite with them in opposing the present State and National administration, commend to their support and to the approval of all honest and independent persons the foregoing platform and nominees of this Convention.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions was unanimously adopted, and the Convention then balloted for a candidate for Governor. The first ballot resulted as follows: Samuel J. Tilden, 262; A. J. Parker, 126; scattering, 10.

On motion of Mr. Parker, Mr. Tilden was then made the unanimous choice of the Convention.

William Dorsheimer, Liberal Republican, was nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

Protest Against the Renomination of Governor Dix

NEW YORK, September 17.—The Grand Lodge of Good Templars adopted a resolution this morning protesting against the renomination of Governor Dix, as a renomination must be regarded as a violation of the plighted faith of the Republican party with the Temperance men of the State, and a deliberate surrender to the demands of the liquor traffic and the enemies of the Christian Sabbath.

COLUMBUS, O.

Reunion of the Army of the Cumberland.

COLUMBUS, September 17.—At a meeting of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland this morning, Gen. Craft, from the Committee on the Thomas Monument, reported that the commission has been given to J. Q. A. Ward for a full equestrian statue of Gen. Thomas, the statue to be completed in three years, and to cost $35,000, exclusive of pedestal. The War Department has donated eighty-eight bronze cannon, which will be sold and the proceeds used for this purpose. This will leave about $12,000 to be collected by subscription.

The meeting to-day adopted resolutions for renewed efforts in raising the sum.

Gen. G. J. Waterman, of Chicago, was chosen orator for the next meeting, with Gen. Chas. Grosvenor, of Athens, as alternate.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, P. H. Sheridan; Vice Presidents from various States in which the Cumberland Army was represented; Recording Secretary, Geo. W. Steele, of Elyria, O.; Corresponding Secretary, Henry M. Cist, of Cincinnati.

At the earnest request of Colonel W. C. Squier, the next meeting of the Society will be held in Utica, New York, September 16th and 17th, 1875.

The banquet to night in honor of the Society was a complete affair. As many members of the Society left for home this afternoon, the seats at the table were not all filled until General Sheridan invited ladies in the gallery to occupy them. The first toast of the evening was "The President of the United States," which was eloquently responded to by Ex Governor Noyes. Among the other toasts "The army and navy" was responded to by General Sherman, "Our sister armies of the east and west" by General Belknap, and "The memory of General Thomas" by General J. M. Comley

Death [illegible] from the Bite of a Cat.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

A boy named Charles Haake, who was bitten by a cat at his home in Chicago, about four weeks ago, died in convulsions on Saturday.

The wound was hardly perceptible at the time it was made, and no ill effects were experienced till a few hours before death, when there was every symptom of hydrophobia. The circumstances of the case were that a neighbor's cat came to the residence of Mr. Haake and killed a kitten. Young Haake was angered at the loss of the kitten, and seized his first opportunity to punish the cat. He caught the animal by the throat, and, when in the act of choking it, it turned upon him and bit his hand. Nothing more was thought of the affair until last Thursday, when young Haake was noticed to manifest an uneasiness, or restlessness. The succeeding day he grew worse, but no one thought of coupling his condition with the handwound of several weeks previous. He was not only uneasy, restless, and nervous, but complained of a muscular soreness and tenderness of the arm, not appreciable, however, by compression. He continued to manifest great uneasiness and nervousness during Friday, and at night, for the first time, his parents began to feel uneasy. Early Saturday morning a dose of oil was given him to take, when he was found unable to swallow. This created some alarm, when Dr. Y. W. Miller, of 47 South Clark street, was sent for. The Doctor reached the house about 9 o'clock. He found Haake very much agitated, and suffering from nervous excitability. His throat was troubling him, there being a constant secretion of the saliva, and he was also complaining of great thirst. The Doctor thought he understood the case at a glance, and, in reply to his complaint of thirst, told him to drink as much cold water as he pleased, which he thought would be a good test of the case. Water was brought him, and he was found unable to swallow. His frequent attempts to swallow were followed by extreme nervous agitation, and paroxysms approximating convulsions. In the meantime Dr. Miller had made a careful diagnosis of the case, and had fully agreed that Haake was suffering from hydrophobia. The father was then called aside and made acquainted with the condition of the patient. The Doctor then left for consultation with Dr. Isham. When he returned, late in the afternoon, the patient was dead. The cat was at once secured, and, after [illegible] of his death it was the common pet of several families of children, and now seems as docile and healthy as it ever was. It will be kept by Dr. Miller for a while to see if any traces of rabidness can be discovered in it, and until he can gather the data to make a report of the case to the medical fraternity.

While the case is a remarkable one, it is not without its parallel in some particulars in the history of medical science. Dozens of cases are on record where persons have died from hydrophobia after being bitten by animals that were not rabid at the time. But a short time ago a case of this kind occurred in Philadelphia, where the party died of hydrophobia six months after being bitten by a dog that was not rabid. He imagined he had the infection, while he was really in perfect health, and the effect upon his mind was such as to produce convulsions and death. But the case of Haake has one peculiar feature, which will go far toward settling the question whether the bite of an animal that is not rabid can produce hydrophobia. That feature is that, at the time of Haake's sickness, unlike most who are attacked with hydrophobia, he had no idea of the nature of his trouble, but thought he was suffering from fever or exposure to the sun. Imagination, then, could have had nothing whatever to do with his death. Whether the bite of an animal that is not rabid will produce hydrophobia is one of the greatest questions mooted in medical circles. While the majority of physicians negative the idea, not a few maintain the affirmative. If the cat in question proves, as it is believed it will, not to have been rabid at the time of biting Haake, in view of the absolute certainty that he died from hydrophobia, the science of medicine is destined to take an important step forward.

THERE is a coal mine on the farm of Mrs. Rebecca Lewis, in Morris township, Washington county, in connection with which there are several interesting items. In the first place no one knows when it was opened. The oldest inhabitants say that it was there as long ago as they can remember, and that their fathers knew nothing about the beginning of its history. A quantity of dirt had fallen across its mouth a long time ago, which was removed some time since, and ever since the mine has been producing coal. The rock above the opening was at first braced up by two wooden posts. One of these, however, has become petrified, and to the pick gives the hardest ring of solid stone. While the other, situated in just the same way, remains wood. This is in itself a curious fact. An ore which is so hard as to break off the points of picks when struck is found within the mire in large quantities. It produces when smelted a large yield of a whitish metal, of a kind we are not prepared to name. A piece of it has been sent away to be assayed, from which no return has yet been received. Taken altogether, its age, the petrefaction, minerals, &c., make this old mine a point well worth visiting.—Waynesburg Independent.

The Prairie du Chien Division of the M. and St. P. R. R. Subject to the Potter Law.

MILWAUKEE, September 17.—That part of the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the railroad case which excepts the Prairie du Chien division of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Company from the operations of the Potter law stated that if it should be shown that the charter of that road was accepted after the adoption of the State Convention, the exception would not exist. The Attorney General and Railroad Commissioners have since examined the matter, and they find that the company was organized in May, 1849, that is, after the adoption of the State Constitution; hence the Prairie du Chien Division is subject to the law as well as the other branches of the Milwaukee and St. Paul road. The papers have accordingly been prepared, and will be served on the officers of the Company to-morrow, and on Tuesday next the State will apply to the Supreme Court for another injunction to include the Prairie du Chien Division.

WELLSBORO, PA.

A Bank Robbed of $50,000.

PHILADELPHIA, September 17.—A Wellsboro dispatch says that the bank there was robbed this morning by five men. The President of the bank and family were gagged. The robbers took from the safe, which the Cashier was compelled to open, $50,000, mostly in currency. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for the arrest of the robbers.

The Butler Oil District—Number of Wells, Capital Invested, Etc.

TITUSVILLE, PA., September 17.—The Courier will publish to morrow an itemized and elaborate report of the great Butler oil district, covering the entire production of the country south and west of Petrolia. The figures have all been collected by going over each farm and taxing the records of each well in detail. The summary gives at present 596 producing wells, and 81 wells now drilling. There are 1,076 engineers employed. The working capital invested is $4,859,000. The daily product of oil in this district is 15,548 barrels, which is a large increase since the 1st of August last.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 109¾.

GENERAL P. H. SHERIDAN has been re-elected President of the Army of the Cumberland.

THE Democracy of New York have nominated Samuel J. Tilden for Governor. This is probably the best they could make, but is one that will be sure to be beaten. The Democracy is very greatly divided, and the fight in Convention was bitter and short.

THE latest from Louisiana is that the McEneryites will not resist the Federal troops, but obey the President's mandate. It seems to be considered that the moral power of Kellogg's administration has been broken, and that his reinstatement now is of small importance.

WHO IS John Miller? The Harrisburg Telegraph says: "The most we have learned is that he is a Democratic politician—a Chester county man—trained in the Wm. McMullin school, Philadelphia, and that he conducted the campaign of 1872 for that other chairman of the Democratic State Committee, Mr. Muehler."

POLITICAL virtue ought always to be commended. The Democrats have nominated William H. Dimmick for President Judge of the Wayne and Pike district,—the very man who was compelled to resign his seat in the Legislature last Winter because of his implication in the bank swindle. A beautiful President Judge he would make.

THE Democracy, of New York, go in for free trade and free liquor, are opposed to Third Term, and various other things, some condemnable and others not. What is good in their platform is derived from Republican utterances, and what is bad is undeniably their own. The peculiarity of their Convention was the nomination of William Dorsheimer, a Liberal Republican, for Lieutenant Governor.

THE rains, which began in St. Louis, and were anticipated here, seem to have visited us but lightly, but Philadelphia and the East have had abundant rains. Perhaps we ought to have enough benevolence to be glad, as the country at the East has suffered more from drought than it has around here. Still, while the clouds were yielding their abundance of rain, there was no good reason that we know of, why they should not have bountifully supplied us.

THE improved business outlook is the source of abundant comment on the part of the press. In every part of the country data springs up showing the hopeful spirit of the people, and there is no doubt but that a spirit of confidence is returning. This is, after all, the basis of assured success. The great need of the country for months past, has been for the people to have enough confidence in each other to vigorously prosecute their undertakings, realizing that if all alike are active, the interchange of labor and means will promote prosperity.

IF THE reported conversation between certain Southern Republicans and President Grant has been correctly reported, the idea that the proposed veto of the Civil Rights bill was in any way associated with the idea of a Third Term agreement was rather rudely dispelled. Senator Spencer, of Alabama, said to the President: "It was reported that, had the bill passed, you would have vetoed it. How is that?" "Had it passed at the last session," said the President, "I would certainly have done so; but, should it pass at the next session, I cannot say that I will veto it. It may become my duty to sign it. The responsibility will rest with the Southern Republicans, who have forced this question upon the party." This is an unequivocal declaration of the fact that whatever action he may take, will be done independently of any outside consideration.

THE SOUTHERN PRESS.

The spirit of the Southern press is worth noticing, in the midst of the upheavals at New Orleans. It shows that while alleged grievances are made the basis of revolutionary action, the cause is deeper than that. The following is one of the resolutions of a list adopted by a Democratic Convention in Macon county, Alabama, the 5th inst. "Resolved, That Alabama being a white man's country, we should all determine in spite of Grant, Sumner, Busteed, Glass, or the devil, to have white men to rule over us, let the consequences be what they may." Says the Times, Shreveport, Louisiana, of the murdered negroes, "The six carpet-baggers of Red River Parish ought to have been arrested, and tried, convicted, and punished through the Courts of the State; but the Courts of the State were their creatures and instruments, and the people rightfully judged, condemned, and punished them." The Field Hand, the colored men's organ in Louisiana, commenting on the bitter spirit displayed toward the colored people, says, "Is it to be for a single moment believed that enlightened and intelligent Southern men dread the uprising of that class of ignorance which only requires a decisive and steady look to be cowed and conquered? Ah, no! The war is against educated colored men, men who form sound reasoning, prove themselves to be men worthy of every right, civil, political, and social, that is engendered in any member of the human family. The war is also upon the class of white men who have come South, and, making it their home, recognize in the aspiring and intelligent colored man a creature like himself, after the image of God." Such is the spirit of the ex-rebel whites of the South. While we would not have them in any particular mistreated, we submit that when such a vicious spirit is manifested, very considerable allowance can be made, as to statements offered, because of a very palpable purpose to make a strong case.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The report of the stockholders' committee appointed to thoroughly investigate the affairs of the Pennsylvania Railroad, deserves a more general mention than we had space to accord it yesterday. It contains internal evidence to show that the work assigned to the committee was carefully and conscientiously performed, and the conclusions reached and recommendations offered are, therefore, worthy the confidence of the stockholders. Where criticism or censure were thought to be deserved, they are freely bestowed, and a spirit of independence runs through the entire article. The concluding remarks epitomize the advantages which have resulted to towns and cities being built up or prospered. Of this city, it says: "The Company, by its aid to Western lines, has given the city of Pittsburgh, with its great manufacturing interests, an impetus and growth it would not have had, depending on the waters of the Ohio. By the opening of the gas-coal mines of Westmoreland and Allegheny counties, the soft coals of Cambria, of Clearfield, and of Huntingdon, the development of the iron interests, the utilization of remote forests, and the immense production of oil, the road has made a home market for the products of the farm, the forest, and the mines all along its lines, and it is gathering into the State a rapidly increasing, sturdy, and energetic population." Despite the occasional spirit of fault finding that obtains, we believe the statement we quote is substantially true. While there is a reciprocal benefit,—the railroads needing population and commerce to serve their purposes, they are, to a large extent, the promoters of growth to cities and communities. In this direction Pittsburgh has been greatly benefited by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The significant part of the report, however, is that contained in a series of preambles and resolutions, printed for the consideration of the shareholders, and with a view to their being adopted at the meeting to be held to act upon the report. These declare that the stockholders are the legislative and the directors and officers the executive departments of the road; and to enable the latter more fully to devote themselves to their duties, it is proposed to have four of the directors salaried, with a view to their devoting full time to their duties. A committee of stockholders is hereafter to nominate the ticket for directors in advance of the election, and publish the names for six days; the annual report is also to be published in advance of the annual meeting. All changes of policy are to be submitted to the stockholders for their action. Floating debts are to be kept down. Available securities are to be sold, and the proceeds applied to the reduction of the public debt. The policy of the company as regards leases, is to make these on the basis of working the leased roads at cost, and not by purchasing stock.

It will be seen from this outline that the policy proposed is, to enlarge the influence of stockholders, and to furnish them information that will enable them to act on all issues that may arise intelligently. Also to concentrate the financial management of the road, so that floating debts may be avoided, and the bonded debt of the road greatly reduced. This course avoids all possibility of danger in the event of a crisis like that of a year ago, and the general policy thus inaugurated will enhance the value of the stock of the road very greatly. It is evident that the movement to thoroughly examine the affairs of the road has been made use of to inaugurate a new era in its policy—one of greater openness and confidence toward the stockholders, and of more compact and direct financial management. Such a policy has been known to be that advocated by Colonel Scott, the President, and is certainly popular with the stockholders and one that assures the clearest success.

THE PRESIDENT'S COURSE.

In tracing the causes which have led to the New Orleans revolution, a number of journals state that President Grant refused to hear the representations of the people of Louisiana, and wilfully and selfishly sustained Kellogg, and hence shares with Congress the responsibility for the existing order of things. To our mind the course of the President was not only clear and consistent, but was the only one that he could at all follow. He has frequently explained it—on one occasion to a party of Louisianians, headed by Judge Campbell. It embodied simply the idea that he was the executive, and not the judicial or legislative head of the Government; and his duty was to enforce the laws as interpreted by the courts. The United States Supreme Court in Louisiana had decided in favor of Kellogg, and the President, without going behind the record, must simply enforce its decisions till they were revoked by legitimate authority. Thus he did not pass judgment on the claims of the contending parties, but simply enforced the mandates of the Courts. Certainly this was so clearly the proper thing to do that the President cannot be challenged for thus performing plain duty.

When, however, Congress assembled, a new phase of duty came up. He laid before Congress the subject, stated what he had done, and why he had done it, and committed to that body the duty of investigating the subject, urging that it should be done promptly, thoroughly, and fairly, that all wrongs might be righted. There his duty ended, and we submit that he did all that could be claimed of him intelligently, wisely, and well. Congress responded to the request made by appointing Committees of Investigation. Senator Carpenter, as the head of one, reported against Kellogg. But between the Senate and House the subject was juggled along, and nothing done. A vast body of testimony was gathered, and many intrigues were indulged, the effect being to disgust Congress with both parties, and induce the belief that one was as honest as the other, and that at best it was merely a choice of evils. Thus they concluded to leave matters as they were, and no action was taken. It would have been best to have ordered a new election, and let that determine the result. But certainly there would have been no more justice in restoring McEnery to power, than in permitting Kellogg to remain Governor.

We incline to think that the preponderance of wealthy and intelligent business men favored McEnery; but this does not prove that Kellogg did not receive a majority of the votes cast. In our system, it is not the quality, but the number of votes cast, that determines results. The vote of a penniless negro is worth exactly as much as that of the proudest millionaire. But this is exactly what the lordly Southerners do not like. That the votes of 10,000 negroes, their servants and employes, and their slaves in the ante-war times, should count just as much as the votes of 10,000 wealthy, intelligent, refined people, of the master race, is what they do not clearly understand, and are not willing to concede. All the patronizing assurances of protection and kindness, and guarantee of rights, are worded so as to convey the intimation that they are superior and the negroes inferior, and in some instances are actually conditioned on their good behavior. All this simply means that whatever formal concessions of ballot privilege are made them, they are not to expect to control, or to be permitted to see any results from their ballots different from what would come in any event. The ex-rebel whites are determined to dominate the South, and the ballot for the negro is a practical nullity.

Thus have complications arisen, which have culminated in revolution. But through them all, the President could not do differently from what he has. His duty will compel him to restore Kellogg, even if the latter were agreed to resign the next day. The precedent of allowing revolution to be successful cannot be permitted. Our view is that the President has all along, been conciliatory and kind to the remonstrant Louisianians. He received their committee, heard their address, listened to their representations, urged action toward investigating their grievances on Congress, did all in his power to remedy the trouble. He explained to them so clearly the reasons for his action, that the committee conceded the correctness of his views, while inveighing against Durell. Certainly the President cannot be blamed. Rash counsels have obtained in New Orleans, and wrongs have been precipitated, chiefly through these, and the evil aid of the White League, an infamous organization that should not be tolerated, more than were the Ku Klux.

POLITICAL NOTES.

A PLEASANT little allusion is made to the President, by the Baltimore Gazette, as the "Third Term Monster."

CONGRESSMAN H. L. Dawes has been invited by the Republican Committee of Massachusetts to preside at the State Convention, which meets at Worcester, October 7.

THERE'S altogether too much talk at the South about Federal troops never, no never, being permitted to enter their cities. That little game was tried and failed just ten years ago.

AMONG the young men proposed for the Presidency are Alexander H. Stevens and Parson Brownlow from the South, and Governor Allen, of Ohio—neither of them much over three score years and ten.

HON. GERRIT SMITH has written a lengthy letter on political topics, in which he says: "I view as absurdities all 'Local Option Laws' and 'License Laws' and 'Civil Damage Laws,' and I would have every instance of drunkenness regarded as a voluntary and responsible insanity, and therefore be punished severely."

THERE will be several tremendous men in the next Congress if all the candidates nominated get elected. The other day we copied a description of a man in Georgia who seemed to be a sort of moving electric battery, and here comes another. He lives in Florida, and is thus pictured: "From the highest standpoint known to man, the science of mind, this gentleman stands pre eminent, and soars above any other person whose name can be mentioned for any position within the gift of the people of Florida. The mental, motive and vital temperaments are about in equal proportions, and with large organic quality, places him, in spite of himself, a man among the first men in this country." Keep him at home. He is too great for Congress. Make him a member of the School Committee.—N. Y. Tribune.

SEVERAL of the Southern newspapers have been abusing the Louisville Courier-Journal for its plain language on the subject of the recent disturbances. It hits back at them in this way: "The Southern people might as well recognize now the fact that we shall never get on our feet unless we can unite among ourselves in keeping the peace. For the first time since the war our local authorities, our Governors, our judges, our grand juries are thoroughly aroused, and, while their activity comes too late to save us the Fall elections, it gives the country at large a guarantee of the beginning of a new era, whose policy, if it be adhered to, will ultimately bring us out of the woods. In the mean time it seems to us to be more important to support the movement of Gov. Leslie in Kentucky and Governor Brown in Tennessee by the organization of an adequate public sentiment than to rub a little goose-grease over our sores thinking to conceal them by the vain hope of current partisan successes."

PERSONAL.

GOVERNOR HARTRANFT is again at his post in the Executive Department.

BARNUM, the showman, was married Wednesday, to an English maiden, the daughter of John Fisk, of Southport.

WOODHULL and Claflin are in Paris, and are written up by the Figaro, but it is not yet clear who they have selected for a victim.

DR. F. V. HAYDEN has named a newly-discovered mountain in Colorado, 13,700 feet high, after Chief Justice Daly, of New York, President of the American Geographical Society.

GEN. BURNSIDE is spoken of in connection with the Russian mission, made vacant by the resignation of Minister Jewell to accept the position of Postmaster General. It is hardly probable that General Burnside would accept it if tendered him, as he has a very fair chance of being elected United States Senator from Rhode Island.

IT appears from the New York correspondent of the Chicago Tribune that Miss Edna Dean Proctor is the lady referred to in Moulton's statement as the party whom he charges Mr. Beecher with having outraged. The charge has elicited the most comment of an unfavorable character, and the lady herself has prepared a card for publication in which she will deny Moulton's allegations and the inferences drawn from her justification of Beecher.

THE will of Don Bartoleme Blanco de Lema, who died in New York August 10, was admitted to probate Monday. The testator was owner of 132 houses in New York and Brooklyn, his income at his death being nearly $1,000 a day. His will leaves $7,000 for the establishment of a pious school at Cee, $500 to each of the Catholic churches of New York, $10,500 for religious and charitable purposes of New York, $10,000 to his mother, and the remainder of his estate of $3,000,000 to his brothers and sisters in Spain.

A VERY pleasing testimonial to the memory of Abraham Lincoln is under preparation by Julius E. Francis, of Buffalo. It is a large book in which Mr. Francis is collecting the autographs and brief records of all the soldiers and sailors engaged in the late war. The work was begun at the Boston Jubilee, and now contains 7,000 names. This list, when completed, is to be deposited in the Grosvenor Library at Buffalo, with all the historical records and relics of the war that can be obtained, and is to remain there, dedicated to Lincoln's memory, not only as a testimonial, but a benefit to all who desire to consult it. Mr. Francis is now in New York obtaining autographs for his volume, and trying, also, to obtain a popular recognition of Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, as a public holiday.

QUEER association that is which has been established at Austin, Nevada! It is called the Free and Independent Grass-Widowers' Bean-Eating League. It holds weekly festivals for the consumption of the vegetable indicated. THE Russian Chapel in New York being too small to accommodate the members of the Greek Church in that city, Russian subjects have represented to the Imperial Government the need of a new church edifice for their use, and plans for a structure to cost $85,000 have been sent to St. Petersburg for approval. About $35,000 in aid of the project have already, it is understood, been obtained from various sources, Mr. Winans, of Baltimore, having given $10,000. A plot of ground for such a church was purchased for the Russian Government three years ago in Lexington avenue.

When he gets into the new mint, which he expects to do about November 1, and is fairly started, he thinks he can make all the trade dollars required for business purposes on the Pacific coast. The coin he pronounces to be a perfect success, and if enough of them could be made the Mexican dollars would be entirely driven out of circulation. The trade dollar keeps up the price of crude silver, and at the same time opens a very large market for silver bars.

A LABORER's wife at Mortimer, a village near Reading, in Berkshire, died the other day from the sting of a hornet. She was standing in the road near her house, when a hornet flew out from a nest in the bank and stung her on the right side of the neck. She went indoors, and a neighbor bathed her neck with water and vinegar. However, she fainted almost immediately, and expired in a few minutes before a medical man could reach the house. The shock to her nervous system was the immediate cause of death.

THE London correspondent of The Scotsman states that more than 3,000 documents, partly in manuscript, partly in the print of the period, describing the rise and development of the various religious sects in Europe, were collected by Prof. Schneider, of Berlin, in the course of nearly 50 years' bookhunting, and are now awaiting a purchaser in the shop of some one of the European seats of learning. The presence of the floating metals is shown by deposits made on copper vessels, sunk in the streams, where, in a few months, hundreds of dollars' worth of quicksilver is collected.

A MOTHER MURERED.

The Terrible Crime of a Young French Peasant and his Sister.

The accused persons in the murder case reported to-day are a peasant, Albin Plais, and his sister Anna, aged respectively 22 and 20. They were tried on the charge of strangling their mother, an ex baby farmer, at Favrolles. The mother and daughter cultivated the property, and Albin worked with a neighboring farmer. The widow was thrifty, reputed to have saved a good lump of money, but was not esteemed in the commune, though it would appear the moral standard there is not high. While widow Plais was hoarding the dower, Albin came to the conclusion that it was high time for the old woman (she was 49) to take herself out of the way. Anna was charged with having shared his views.

On June 9th, toward one o'clock in the morning, Albin Plais went to fetch two women, named Adelmar and Sadorge, to lay out his mother, who, he told them, had just died. They were surprised at his haste to summon them. Their astonishment was heightened when they went to wrap the winding sheet. Anna threw herself on the corpse of her mother, crying out that the night clothes must not be stirred, and that above all things, a finger must not be laid on the handkerchief which was round the dead woman's neck. When the doctor of the mayoralty came to sign the order for interment, he at once perceived marks of strangulation. The children at first told him that their mother had been for some time possessed with a suicidal mania. The night of her death she got up out of her bed, and called to Albin to come and help her hang herself; and Albin, seeing she was bent on self-destruction, gave her the assistance she desired.

Soon afterward the young man confessed to committing the crime. He prepared a cord with a running knot which he hid away in a corner. When the church clock struck eleven the brother and sister got out of the bed. The former took the halter, and, on tiptoe, approached his mother who, fatigued, had fallen into a deep sleep. He then slipped the loop around her neck and jerked her with the cord toward him. He dragged the mother with the force of the horse. The wretched woman was jerked out of her bed and pulled with the halter across the room to the hearth, when Albin, kneeling on her chest, tightened with all his strength the slip knot. Anna, according to her own account, stood looking on. It was a bright night. The window shutters were not closed, and the moonbeams fell upon the murderer and murdered.

When the death struggle was over the girl Plais went to her mother's side, lifted an arm and let it fall to see whether it fell dead upon the floor. Finding that life was extinct, the brother and sister set about concealing the crime. They placed the corpse on the bed, under the halter, and tied a handkerchief round the neck to hide the marks of the cord. This done, Albin relieved his burdened breast by a horrible blasphemy—he and Anna agreeing that to hide the traces of strangulation they ought to get through the laying out before day broke.

Being found guilty the young man was sent to prison for life, and the girl, against whom there was no proof of guilt, was discharged.—London News Paris Correspondence.

AN EXTRAORDINARY ACCIDENT.

The Bottom Falls Out of a Reservoir and the Water Goes Apparently to China

(From the Philadelphia Bulletin.)

A year or two ago certain citizens of Conshohocken organized a water company and proceeded to construct works with which to supply the town with water. The supply was pumped from the Schuylkill river to a reservoir placed upon a hill above the village. The works were completed last Fall at a cost of $75,000, and the reservoir, which was a superb piece of workmanship, was filled with water. All last Winter the citizens were blessed with a plentiful supply of water, and during the past summer especially they were pleased with the improvement, because the cisterns upon which they had been accustomed to depend were nearly empty, in consequence of the drought. The reservoir is close to the turnpike to the north-east of the town, and near by is a toll gate. The keeper of the gate reports that on Monday night, when he turned in, the reservoir was in good condition, and apparently capable of remaining so for several centuries to come. On Tuesday morning, when he turned out, he was surprised to find that a portion of the fence surrounding the reservoir had disappeared. He instantly proceeded to investigate the mystery, and, upon ascending the hill, he found that had occurred. A portion of the southern embankment had sunk out of sight, leaving a hole about thirty feet in diameter; and as the wall of the reservoir had disappeared the water had vanished with it, with the exception of a small portion, about 1½ feet in depth, which was retained because the floor was uninjured and because the cavity did not extend clear down to the floor. A cautious inspection showed that a portion of the embankment had dropped straight downward about twenty-five feet, and upon looking into the hole the top of the bank with the fence and the sod was discovered at the bottom. The side of the vast hole contained a huge precipitous rock down the side of which the earth had slipped. But the most remarkable thing about the accident was that no water could be found in the hole. There were more than in the reservoir at the time, and almost the whole of this had gone down the cavity and had disappeared utterly. What became of this vast body of water nobody knows. It has not turned up anywhere yet, unless it has broken through somebody's cellar floor in China. That such an enormous mass of fluid should have quitted the surface of the earth suddenly and left no trace behind, is certainly somewhat startling, and it is only natural that the people of the neighborhood should feel a little uneasy at the thought that perhaps there is a mammoth cave far down in the earth underlying the whole vicinity. The existence of such a cavity alone will serve to explain this strange occurrence, for it is clear that the ordinary subterranean water courses, such as supply the springs about the country, could not so suddenly conduct away such a large volume of water.

The country is of limestone formation, and this is not the first time that suspicion has been excited that it is underlaid with great caves. At a place called Marble Hall, about two miles east of Conshohocken, there has been for years a marble quarry.

A Hole that Cannot be Filled.

Enough dirt has been dumped into it to make a tolerably large mountain, and still it remains the same old hole. Some years ago a large quantity of bran was poured into it, and this subsequently came out at Spring Mill, just below Conshohocken. At this point there is a famous spring, from which the water boils out at a furious rate. Perhaps the contents of the reservoir will find egress at this spring, but they have not appeared yet. In the meantime the water company is in sore affliction, and it is puzzled to know what to do about reconstructing its reservoir. The task of rebuilding upon a bottomless pit is not an easy one.

THE FIRST CHURCH IN AMERICA.

Contents of the Box Deposited at the Time of Its Dedication.

[From the Boston Globe.]

On Saturday, the workmen engaged in remodeling the First Church edifice, at Salem, Mass., removed the corner stone, laid in 1826, and from a place cut in the stone removed the box deposited at the time of the dedication. A silver plate finely engraved bore the following inscriptions: Front—To the God and father of our Lord Jesus Christ, our God, and the God of our fathers; the descendants of Higginson, Endicott and the other New England pilgrims, who here gathered the first American church, August 6th, 1629, have laid this corner stone of the fourth edifice erected on this spot for Christian worship, April 27, A. D. 1826, under the ministry of the Rev. John Prince, LL. D., and the Rev. Charles W. Upham, associate pastors.

"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

Reverse.

Settled. A. D.	Succession of Pastors.	Died or Resigned.
1629	Francis Higginson	1630
1629	Samuel Skelton	1634
1631	Roger Williams	1635
1636	Hugh Peters	1641
1640	Edward Norris	1658
1660	John Higginson	1708
1683	Nicholas Noyes	1717
1714	George Curwin	1717
1718	Samuel Fiske	1735
1739	John Sparhawk	1755
1755	Thomas Barnard	1776
1772	Asa Dunbar	1779
1779	John Prince	——
1824	Charles W. Upham	——

The plate was remarkably bright, and will be replaced under the new corner stone, the dates of the resignations of the Rev. Mr. Prince and the Rev. Mr. Upham having been filled in—the former in 1836, and the latter 1844—and the names of the succeeding pastors—the Rev. Thomas T. Stone, from 1845 to 1852, the Rev. George W. Briggs, from 1853 to 1867, and the Rev. James T. Hewes, from 1868 to the present time—having been added to the list. Besides, there was added the fact of the present remodeling of the church edifice. The latter engraving has been done by Daniel Low, and is a perfect counterpart of that originally on the plate. An interesting passage from an address by the Rev. C. W. Upham at the rededication of the church, after extensive alterations, in 1867, shows how rapidly chances creep over the things of this world, and is as follows:

"We have, in the files of the parish, well drawn plans of the church of 1718, with all the pews and the names of their occupants, when it was opened and when it was closed in 1826. The pulpit stood where it now does, and it is quite certain that it was similarly placed in the church of 1670. From this precise spot, for two hundred years, the word has been dispensed, and the supplications of the people reached the ear of the Most High. No man can fathom the depths of futurity. It is all uncertain what changes it has in store for us or our successors. But so far as we can form a judgment on the point, it may be assumed as probable that a church will always remain on the spot; prayer and praise, in the indefinite future, as through the long past, will here rise to the God of our fathers. It may seem that the solid walls around us, and the granite foundations on which they rest, are imperishable. If, however, by any catastrophe, necessity, or controlling considerations, they should be demolished, the inscription, engraved on the plate, then brought to light—'Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away'—will proclaim a truth, more wonderful and glorious, the greater the lapse of intervening centuries."

The changes now taking place will make the church more modern in appearance, and will transform it into one of the finest church edifices in the city.

TO BUYERS OF DRY GOODS!
Throughout the United States and Territories.

The present United States Postage Laws allow the sending of packages containing Dry Goods, &c., to any point within the United States or Territories, at the very low rate of one cent for each two (2) ounces, on packages weighing four pounds or less. This will enable our customers and others at a distance to avail themselves of the extraordinary bargains we are now offering in Dry Goods, (prices being lower than since the year 1857.) We send samples of goods with price by mail when requested, and all orders by letter will receive our best and promptest attention, and goods will be sent through the Postoffice, as above, or by Express to any point desired within the United States. For the coming Fall and Winter trade, we have made all necessary arrangements to largely increase and extend our business. This we expect to accomplish by offering a large, full and attractive stock of Dry Goods, &c., at the lowest possible cash prices, unsurpassed in any city in the Union. We would cordially invite strangers and others visiting our city, to call and inspect for themselves. Our stock, building and facilities for doing business, using as we do the basement and five stories above, making in all six of the largest and best lighted salesrooms to be found in the United States, being in direct Telegraphic communication (by our own private Telegraphic wires from our Office,) with all the Eastern cities and Manufacturers. Visiting the Eastern markets almost every week, receiving all the Novelties in Foreign Dress Goods, &c., as soon as imported, making contracts direct with American Manufacturers, buyers will find our facilities unsurpassed for offering the best of Bargains.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, September 18, 1874.

The demand for discounts at our banks continues good, and while it is generally accommodated, the funds of many of the banks are quite fully employed. While the increase of business has been steady and regular, this increase of monetary demand has come forward quite suddenly, and has given rise to inquiry as to the cause. Are their debts to be paid? or real estate speculations to be indulged? or are preparations being made for a sudden increase in our manufactures? It is believed that the pinch with our manufacturers is entirely past. All the conditions are favorable to them, in so far as steady orders, at a small but paying profit, are concerned. The price of Lake Superior ore and pig iron, owing to quantity at Cleveland seeking a market, is favorable, while the eastern market for finished iron is very favorable to our manufacturers,—at, as we have said, a relatively small but reasonable profit. All this looks like a steady business on a new basis, frequent, cash orders, and at close figures, but a fair margin of profit.

There is more movement in real estate, but buyers are careful and cautious.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, held in Philadelphia, March 10, 1874, action was taken on complaints made by stockholders as to the management of the Company, these complaints having arisen soon after the great panic of last Autumn, and not having been officially noticed up to that time. This action was in the form of an appointment of a committee, selected from the complaining stockholders to examine the affairs of the company and give a report in detail.

This account shows the total assets of the Company amounting to	$178,371,778 17
The bonded debt and all other liabilities other than to stockholders	59,416,373 00
Total	$118,955,405 08
The amount of capital stock issued	68,144,475 00
Leaving surplus value to credit of profit and loss	$50,810,930 08

Which will make each share of the 1,363,000 shares of the stock of the company represent a value of $87.28 or $37.28 above its par value.

The balance sheet of the Company gives the following as the exact amount of stock, mortgage and floating debt:

Capital stock authorized by charter		$30,000,000 00
Capital stock outstanding		15,898,401 96

NEW YORK, September 17, 1874.

The Treasury disbursed $23,000. The customs receipts were $525,000. The specie shipments were $64,000. Money 2@2½; discounts, short, 5@6. Sterling was steady at 483¾@484 for sixty days and 486¼@486½ sight. Gold opened at 110, and closed at 109⅞. The carrying rate was 2; borrowing 2 per cent. to flat. State bonds were quiet, except Tennessees, which were slightly off. In railroad bonds there was a large business. Pacifics advanced, and C. C. & I. C. declined slightly. Governments were quiet and steady. The stock market was strong early in the day, and prices advanced ¼ to 1½ per cent. above the closing quotations of yesterday. Shortly after twelve o'clock an attack was made on "Granger stocks," and the entire list was affected, the downward movement being considerably assisted by a tumble in Pacific Mail, a rumor of a new line of China steamers about to be started causing a decline in that stock from 48¼ to 47½. St. Paul declined from 34½ to 33, Northwest common from 37⅝ to 36⅝, and Wabash from 34¼ to 32⅝. The decline in Northwest was caused by a rumor to the effect that the earnings of the road will show a heavy decrease. Towards the close leading stocks were steady. The sales were about 155,000 shares, of which 15,000 were Western Union, 14,000 Pacific Mail, 4,500 New York Central, 38,500 Lake Shore, 24,000 Union Pacific, 21,000 Northwest, 24,000 St. Paul, and 10,000 Wabash.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, Sept. 17, 1874.

There is nothing particularly important to record in regard to commercial matters: we can report a fair degree of activity in the general markets, and as a general thing there is a stronger feeling as regards values. Sugars are very stiff and we have again advanced our quotations; Coffee is also a shade firmer. The hog product is very stiff, and with the exception of Hams, prices are higher. Corn and Oats have also stiffened up again, and the market is almost if not altogether as strong as it was prior to the recent slight reaction. In produce, trade is reported slow, although the only important change we have to note is an advance in Butter. While, as we have repeatedly stated, the demand for almost everything is confined entirely to supplying immediate wants, there is nevertheless, a very fair volume of business in the aggregate.

APPLES—There is a very limited supply in the hands of commission men, but farmers are now able to supply the demand, hence there is no improvement to note in prices. We continue to quote at $1@2 ⅌ brl.

BUTTER—We can report a steady demand for the best grades, and regular sales of prime to choice at 27@28c. Medium to good quotable at 20@25 and inferior to common at 10@15. It is stated that but few, if any, of the large western dealers will start consignments to this market until they can obtain 30c. as they can do better by shipping on further east.

CHEESE—The market is firm with a limited stock, light receipts and an average demand, hence an advance soon is anticipated; we continue to quote Ohio Factory at 14@14½. Ohio Sweitzer, 17@18.

EGGS—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and while the market continues dull, prices have undergone no change for a couple of days past. Fresh quotable at 15@16. As stated in our last report, however, the feeling prevails that the market has touched bottom, and that an advance will be the next movement.

FLOUR—There are no new features to note in the market worthy of special notice: trade is quiet while prices remain unchanged. We continue to quote Spring wheat flours at $6 25@6.75 for Wisconsins: $7@7.50 for Minnesotas, the outside figure for choice old stock: red winters, $6@6.50. Rye Flour, $5.75.

GROCERIES—Trade in this line is moderate, and while it is not all that could be desired, it is perhaps all that can reasonably be expected. Sugars continue in good demand, and, as will be seen, we have again advanced our quotations all around; our merchants complain, however, that the demand for other goods is light. Coffee, according to our dispatches of yesterday, was more active in New York but quiet in Baltimore; the general tone of the market is firmer, in sympathy with the advices from Rio. Molasses and Syrups in light stock and firm, but quiet and unchanged. Rice continues firm.

SUGARS.—Hard, 12⅜ A, 11⅝c; B, 11½c; Ex. C, 11⅜; Franklin Extra C, No. 1, 10⅞; Franklin No. 2, 10⅝; Yellows, 8⅞ to 9⅞c; Demerara 11½@12c; P. R. 9⅞ to 10c.

COFFEE.—Fancy Roasted, 25c; loose, 24½c; Choice Rio, 25; prime, 24c; good, 22c. Java, 31.

SYRUPS—Fancy Maple, 75, prime, 70; fair, 70; N. O. Molasses—Choice, 88; prime, 85; fair, 80@83; choice Demerara Molasses, 75; prime, 68.

RICE—Choice Carolina, 9; prime, 8¾; Patna and Rangoon, 7¾.

GRAPES—The market is overstocked, and prices are down to a point that cannot pay the shipper—2@3c ⅌ lb, as by the time cost of transportation and commissions are paid, there is nothing left. Our commission men are discouraging consignments.

GRAIN—The market for Wheat has not varied any for several days: the arrivals continue light but the mills appear to have no trouble in getting all they want, notwithstanding it is complained that prices are lower here than elsewhere. We continue to quote Penna and Ohio at $1.13@1.15 for red, and $1.18@1.20 for Amber and White. The Oat market continues firm, although the recent sharp advance has curtailed the demand; 55@60, according to quality. Corn is also held firmly, but there is not much call for it at the advance; we continue to quote at 87@90. Rye is quiet and nominally unchanged at 95@$1. Barley is quiet, and, in the absence of sales, we omit quotations.

HAY—The supply of Baled for the present is in excess of the demand, hence the market is a little off—may be quoted at $20@24.

ONIONS—$3@3½ ⅌ bbl.

POTATOES—Coming in pretty freely, and the market is off in consequence: quoted at 75@80c ⅌ bushel by the car load. Sweets unchanged at $3@4 ⅌ brl., the outside figure for choice Jerseys.

POULTRY—Live chickens are quotable at 40@60c ⅌ pair, according to size.

PROVISIONS—The market has stiffened up again considerably within the past few days, and, with the exception of Hams, prices are higher. It is worthy of note that Clear Sides are bringing one to one and a half cts. per pound more than Hams. Lard is higher. Following are the current rates: Hams—Extra Sugar Cured, ⅌ lb, 14½@15; Shoulders—Extra Sugar Cured, 11½; Breakfast Bacon—Sugar Cured, 15½c; Dried Beef—Ex Sugar Cured, 16. Bacon—Shoulders, 11c per lb.; Short Rib Sides, 15½; Clear Sides, 16c; Mess Pork, ⅌ brl. $25½; Lard—Refined for summer use in tres, 16; hlf brls, 16½; bkts, 16⅞; 3 lb caddies, 17½; 5 lb. do, 17½. 3 lb. pails, 18⅛; 5 lb. do, 18⅛; 6 lb do, 18.

PLUMS—$3@4 ⅌ box.

PEACHES—Selling at from 75@$1.50 ⅌ box, according to size, quality and condition.

SEEDS—Timothy Seed continues to come forward freely, and as the season is drawing to a close and dealers are anxious to close out, prices are, if anything, weaker; quotable at $3 to the trade and $3.20@3.25 in a jobbing way.

TALLOW—Country, 6½@7c; city, 8c.

PITTSBURGH LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CENTRAL STOCK YARDS, EAST LIBERTY, THURSDAY, Sept. 17, 1874.

ARRIVALS.

Receipts of live stock during the twenty four hours ending to-day at noon, 28 cars cattle: 10 cars hogs and 15 cars Sheep: making for the week, that is, from and including Sunday up until noon to-day, 311 cars cattle; 116 cars hogs and 71 cars of Sheep.

CATTLE.

Trade, as we predicted it would be, was more active on Wednesday afternoon and this morning, the best evidence of which is that the sales footed up 1,396 head, or nearly one half as many as had been sold during the rest of the week. This afternoon there were but one or two small lots of cattle remaining unsold, whereas there were quite a number of buyers wanting cattle and unable to get them, hence the market closed considerably stronger than it opened. However, while as we have already stated, there is no question but what the general tone of the market, especially within the past 24 hours, was much stronger, and while it is equally true that there were some sales made at better rates than prevailed last week, it is doubtful whether there was any quotable or general advance: quite a number of eastern buyers averred that they had to pay more, but sellers, while admitting that the market was stronger, denied that prices were any higher. The highest we heard of was 6⅞, which was paid by Simon O'Donnell to Mike Laughman for 45 prime 1,400 lb Southern Ohio steers. Extra 1,400@1,500 steers may be fairly quoted at 6⅜@6⅝; good 1,200@1,300, 6@6⅜; good 1,000@1,100, 5⅜@5¾. Common natives and common to good Cherokees may be quoted within the range of 3@5c.

Included in the purchases since our last report were 31 cars on New York account, of which Daddisman bought 5 cars, Shamberg and Co. 2 do, S O'Donnell 10 do, various 17 do; Philadelphia 61 cars, of which Duffy & Co. bought 5 cars, Shamberg & Co. 6 do, R. Maynes & Co. 17 do, Jno McArdle 13 cars, various 20 cars. Total sales for the week, 3,192 head, which, if we mistake not, is over one thousand head short as compared with the corresponding time last week. The fact that there has been considerable rain within the past few days, both east and west, will no doubt have a good effect upon the market especially as regards common cattle, as there will not be the same pressure to sell, and on the other hand, it will doubtless stimulate the demand—will cause graziers and feeders to buy, who would not had the drouth continued. We are in hopes that trade will improve, as it has been very unsatisfactory, both eastern and western men all singing the same song—"losing money."

SHEEP.

The arrivals continue light, and the supply at noon to-day was very much reduced, yet, as noted in our report of yesterday, the market has been dull all week, and notwithstanding the diminished supply, prices, as compared with this time last week, are a shade lower. The supply has been small for 2 or 3 weeks in succession, but it seems that the demand fell off with the supply, hence the market instead of improving, as would naturally be expected, has become worse and worse. Extra 100 lb fine wool sheep cannot be quoted above 5c, against 5½@5¾ three weeks ago, and even at this sharp decline there is no life in the trade. Good 90@95 lb, 4½@4¾; 80@85 do, 4@4½. Stockers, 3@3½. Lambs, but few selling; quotable at 4½@5½ for fair to good.

HOGS.

The arrivals thus far have been unusually large this week, but with an increased demand, the market has been fairly active and prices fully sustained. Prime Philadelphia hogs quotable at 8.50—one bunch of fancy brought 8.70. Yorkers, 6¾@7¼; grassers, 6@6¾. Ed. Smith purchased 2 cars Yorkers, 160 lbs, 6⅞; 4 do, 210 do, 7.30; 1 do, 206 do, 7.65. The York men have been buying a better class of hogs for some weeks past, hence the advanced price. Grassers continue dull.

Philadelphia Iron Market.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16—There is a fair inquiry at former prices: sales of three thousand tons No 1 Foundry, Lehigh brands at $30, at the furnace; five thousand tons No 2 do at $26@28, furnace; eight thousand tons Gray Forge at $26@28—including one thousand tons New York delivery at $27, and one thousand one hundred tons White and Mottled at $24, spot. Manufactured Iron—Bars are confidently held and meet a steady demand at 3c ⅌ lb. Rails—Both new and old are moving with more freedom, and remunerated prices are obtained; sales of about ten thousand tons of the former at prices reserved, and eight thousand tons of the latter at $32@35 for Is—the former figure delivered: we quote new Rails at $58@63 for American at works. Scrap is worth $33@35.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, Sept. 17, 1874.

The market was considerably stronger to day, both for Crude and refined, owing no doubt to the proposed advance in freights on the 1st Oct., and prices, as compared with yesterday, were higher. The former was quoted at 90c ⅌ brl, at Parker, an advance of 5c ⅌ barrel, with but few sellers, which would indicate that producers are are expecting still higher rates. Refined was considerably firmer, with bids of 11⅞ for September and 12 for October, with no sellers. The difference in the cost of transportation will be about one cent ⅌ gallon if the rates now talked of are carried into effect, hence it is not strange that prices should advance. As intimated in our last report, our refiners are nearly, if not all, bitterly opposed to the uniform rate proposed by the Penna R. R. Co: they can see no justice in being compelled to pay as much for the transportation of their product to the seaboard as Cleveland, in face of the fact that it is but little over one half of the distance. They—the refiners—ask no favors, all they want is justice, and to this they are certainly entitled, and very likely, when the matter is explained to the proper officials of the corporation in question, different arrangements will be made.

Barrels continue very dull but prices are nominally unchanged at $1.30 for countries, and $1.45@1.50 for city make.

New York Butter and Egg Market.

NEW YORK, September 16.—Receipts for the week, 21,187 packages; do. last week, 23,431; do. same week last year, 20,787 do. Exports past week, 210 firkins. Butter has ruled firm throughout the week, and at the close admits of an advance on all grades that is strongly supported. The local demand has increased very perceptibly of late and the moderate receipts and scarcity of strictly fine table quality gives the impression that that class of stock may continue to advance. The dry spell has held on alarmingly late, and the discouraging reports of drouth in this State and the West have produced considerable speculative feeling. Some Northern sections intimate that fall feed is now hopeless—the chances being that the rain when it does come will be attended with such chilly weather that the badly parched grass will not be revived to any serviceable extent. Shippers have done but little in buying latterly, in fact there have been but few lots that are within their reach. The poorest Western offering will now bring 25. The interior State market is strong; farmers seem to have about as much confidence as operators and release but few lots, though 35 cents is freely offered for Summer packing, and 40c for the Fall make.

Eggs—Receipts for the week, 6,762 brls; do. last week, 6,931 do; same week last year 6,612 brls. There is a decidedly better movement in Eggs. The advance of to day was readily paid, and the market closes with a strong upward tendency. Western are running in quality about as well as State. Quotations: N J & L. I. ⅌ dozen, 23@24; State and Penn, 22@23; Western—choice—loss off, 22; Western, fair marks loss off, 20@22; Canadian, 22@22½.

Chicago Seed Market.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16—Timothy was active early in the week under review, but closes dull and lower, the order trade having suddenly dropped off. The receipts have been moderate. Prices ranged from $2.20@2.80, closing at $2@2.70, with prime about $2.62½@2.65. Clover was scarce and very firm at $6.65@6.75, choice selling to day in a small way at $7. The market is nearly bare of medium clover; mammoth is coming in, but meets with little inquiry. Flax was active at $1.75 for good crushing. Hungarian sold early at 80@85c. Millet was quoted at 85@85c. The former was in good speculative demand, but very little was offered.—Tribune.

GEORGE H. ROHE,
Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

The new metal marks indicated about three and one half inches last evening, and while there is no doubt but what they are correct according to the stone marks, there is no doubt but what there is a good deal more water in the channel than the marks in question. We are reliably informed that there was a mark made near Smith's Ferry in the fall of 1854, when the stage of water was down to 9 inches, and that there are now about 6 inches on the top of this mark, which would make fifteen inches in the channel at that point. Weather continues cloudy and cool with occasional light showers.

The little steamer Lillie departed yesterday with a party of pilots, who go on a tour of observation.

—The Bismarck 'Tribune' says: The Peninah left Monday for Stevenson with a load of wood for that point, and the new T head for the May Lowry. She will not go to Carroll again this season, but will do duty in deeper water between Bismarck and Buford. The Fontenelle left Carroll on the 26th ult., and is expected to return with the May Lowry's trip to Carroll.—Capt. Grant Marsh, of the steamer Josephine, pronounces the river in better condition now than he ever saw it before at this season of the year. There is a large amount of freight here for up river boats; and the Josephine reports several hundred tons at Carroll for down the river.

—The Chicago 'Tribune' of Wednesday says: The rain of yesterday was very heavy over a large part of the Northwest. In Iowa it was so copious as to stop the deliveries of wheat, and will make them light for several days to come, owing to the softness of the roads. The Signal Service Bureau predicted for the Northwest—between the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers—"light rains;" and for the Upper Lake region "light local rains." The prediction was too much verified to enable it to be called a success.

—The St. Louis 'Democrat' of Wednesday says: Shipments are heavy to Memphis and Vicksburg, but matters on the New Orleans wharfboats wore a Sunday quietness. This is owing to the disturbed condition of affairs in New Orleans. St. Louis is deeply interested in matters that affect the welfare of New Orleans. The end is not yet, as the President's proclamation shows. No one can fail to sympathize with the people of Louisiana in their tribulations. Our trade with that section will suffer greatly.

—At an election held by the Red River Pilots' Benevolent Association, at New Orleans, Mr. John H. Lewis was elected President, Mr. John A. Mouchon Secretary, and the following as Directors: Messrs. C. J. Boardman, J. Cassidy, J. W. Carnahan, F. M. Cassel, F. B. Litterel, and A. Swain.

—Capt. Hicks King, of the steamer Shannon, who met with a very severe accident the other day by being struck with a falling spar was better at last accounts, and hopes of his recovery are entertained.

—B. S. Osborn editor of the 'Nautical Gazette,' was Admiral Worden's aid-de-camp in the Monitor Montauk. Her gallant crew will long be remembered for beating the Merrimac, and saving the Minnesota.

—St. Louis advices under date of 15th report heavy rains and cooler weather. St. Paul advices, of same date, also report very heavy rains.

—About Oct 1st the Katie will enter the trade between New Orleans, Calcot City, mouth of White River, and the bend, leaving New Orleans every Monday.

—The Louisville 'Courier' says: There's a hole in the bottom of the river somewhere between here and Pittsburgh. If it isn't stopped up soon the cussed creek will play out.

—The John Kyle left New Orleans Saturday with six hundred tons, including three hundred tons sugar and one thousand sacks salt.

—Jackson & Manson, New Orleans have fifteen thousand sacks salt for shipment West.

—Louis Trace, a well known river man, died at Louisville, of consumption, on Tuesday last.

—On account of low water in Red River we learn that the Bastrop has laid up at Coushatta.

HOME NEWS.

Run Over.

About one o'clock this morning, John Swine, a boy about eighteen years of age, was run over by the cars in Allegheny, and had one of his legs crushed. He was taken to the West Penn Hospital. It is said the limb will have to be amputated.

A Horse Stolen and Abused.

Some time early yesterday morning a valuable draught horse, belonging to Mr. Wm. Hare, of Allegheny, was stolen from his stable on Veto street. During the morning the animal was found near the stock yards in a very much abused condition, and in a few hours afterwards it died.

Jurymen in the Donovan Case.

Owing to the severe strictures passed by Judge Sterrett upon the jurymen who on Wednesday acquitted "Jimmy" Donovan of felonious assault and battery, public curiosity has been considerably aroused to know the names of the jurors. The following are the gentlemen who made up the jury: William McRoberts, John Carson, Thomas Miller, D. W. Gilmore, John Hoffman, Thomas McFarland, Ad. Alston, Samuel Pearce, John N. Neely, Nicholas Nesher, John A. Cochran, and Charles Jones.

Valuable Coal Property for Sale.

We call attention to the sale of 125 acres of valuable coal land, on Tuesday, September 22nd, at 2 P. M., being the coal underlying the estate of James Williams dec'd. Secured river and railroad outlet, fine situation, good drainage and adjoining the coal works of Anderson, Woods & Co., and being the most desirable point in the Monongahela Valley for a manufacturing site. The P. V. & C. Railroad is finished to within a few hundred yards of the property. See advertisement on first page.

Celebrating His Release.

Yesterday morning George Cahoon was released from jail and at once started out to celebrate his release. Last evening Lieutenant Blakely, of Allegheny, arrested him in Fossbinder's saloon on Washington avenue, where he was raising a disturbance. As the Lieutenant was walking away with his prisoner, a man named Lou Railing picked up a stone and was just raising it to throw at the officer, when patrolman Battle, who was standing near unperceived, stepped forward and walked Mr. Railing after Cahoon to the lock-up. They will both have a hearing to-day.

Alleged Attempt at Outrage.

Mrs. Barbara Klingman yesterday made information before Alderman Bolster, of Allegheny, charging a man named Nagelman with assault and battery, with intent to commit an outrage. It appears that the parties are neighbors in the Seventh ward, Allegheny, and the prosecutrix, who is the wife of a dairyman, alleges that Nagelman entered the house on Saturday evening, during the absence of her husband, and attacked her and attempted to outrage her person, but she resisted and screamed for help and in that way frightened him off. Nagelman was arrested and held in $1,000 bail for a hearing.

Boy Injured.

A lad named Jacob Hyle yesterday met with a very singular accident. The boy attended the school attached to the German Lutheran Church, on Eighteenth street, South Side. At the noon recess, he, in company with some other lads, repaired to the river and went in bathing. While climbing from the water up the side of a barge young Hyle in some way struck on a boat spike, which entered his left side making a wound one and a half inches long and sufficiently deep to expose his entrails. He was taken to the office of Dr. Duff and after his wound was dressed sent to his home in West Pittsburgh. The injury is said to be of a very serious character.

Crusaders Assaulted.

Before Alderman Black yesterday a hearing was had in the case of Samuel Lyons vs. David Lysle and John Graff. The defendants were charged with disturbing meetings held by the crusaders of West Elizabeth on the evenings of Friday and Saturday last. It was further alleged that they had pelted the parties conducting the meetings with rotten eggs. When the case was called a number of parties who claimed to have seen the eggs hurled, and were loudest in denouncing the act, and threatening to bring the alleged offenders to justice, failed to put in an appearance, and, accordingly, the case was settled by the prosecutor withdrawing, both sides paying their own costs.

New Boat for Oil City.

A fine four oared shell, designed for the Sowers Boat Club, Oil City, was shipped on the night Express, A. V. R. R., last evening. It was turned out by the well-known makers, Wm. Noffsinger & Co., Duquesne way and Water street, and is a specimen of their best models. It is made out of Spanish cedar, measuring forty one feet in length, by seventeen and a half beam, weighing ninety pounds and costing two hundred and twenty-five dollars. Young Jackson, of the Sowers Club, and Mr. Sowers were the committee on shipping. The Sowers Club of Oil City numbers thirty-five members, and though it had choice of Eastern makers, gave the preference to Pittsburgh builders. The Smoky City bears the palm for the best makers of racing boats.

Convicted and Sentenced.

Some months ago Samuel Thompson, a wealthy liquor dealer, of Brownsville, and a well-known citizen of Fayette county, was arrested on a charge of having procured an abortion on the body of Caroline Chew. He was indicted for the crime, and a few days ago the trial was concluded in the Fayette County Court. On Tuesday the jury rendered a verdict of guilty, and Judge Wilson sentenced Thompson to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and undergo an imprisonment of three years in the Western Penitentiary. A motion was made for a new trial, but after hearing the argument the Court refused to grant it. The case will probably be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Exploring the Ohio River Channel.

Yesterday afternoon some thirty pilots took passage on the steamer Lillie and proceeded down the river for Pomeroy, Ohio. The object of the trip is to make observations of the low water channel, and the conditions are now very favorable for that purpose. The following pilots are on the boat: Captain. J. Lashel, J. Dickey, Mark Watson, Captain G. W. Gray, Samuel Sylvie, L. P. Chester, Captain Wylie Briggs, David Kerr, James Gilmore, Moses McMichaels, Captain John A. Wood, James Stewart, John Dippold, Holmes Harker, —— Berry, John Stafford, John Verner, Louis Bowles, Claude Robinson, Tom McDonald, Doc. Reno, Captain McEllheron, Oliver Douds, John Douds, Samuel Dean, Jr., James Bevington, David Cummings and others.

Larceny of Clothing.

Last evening a robbery was committed at No. 124 Elm street, under peculiar circumstances. Miss Carrie Martin, whose parents reside at the house designated, had been ironing, and she left her work while she ran up stairs. When she returned to her ironing she found that a pair of embroidered pillow cases a shirt and other articles of clothing had mysteriously disappeared. On inquiring among the neighbors, she was informed that the only person seen in the neighborhood was a peddler who had been sitting on the steps of the house for some time. As it is altogether probable that this man appropriated the missing clothing, the public are warned against buying embroidered pillow slips from any one who has a suspicious appearance.

Mont Blanc Foundry.

As the mountain of this name is the especial attention of tourists, when visiting the Alps, so should the above foundry receive the business visits of those who intend the purchase of any thing in the line of Coal Pit Car Wheels, Bridge, Rolling Mill, Blast Furnace and Machinery Castings, as the Messrs. Tomlinson & Co. are provided with every facility for manufacturing on shortest notice mill, furnace and other castings of every description, of material unsurpassed in every quality of excellence. Their foundry is located on Railroad street, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets, and parties dealing with them are assured of gentlemanly treatment in all business transactions and of workmanship and material in their manufactures as shall be equal to the test of representation, and of a certainty render complete satisfaction. Being practical men, and of wide experience in their line of manufactures is sufficient guaranty that they will fully meet every expectation and requirement.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. John K. Holmes.

Announcement was made yesterday morning of the death of Mr. John K. Holmes, one of the most widely known and highly esteemed citizens of Pittsburgh. The demise of Mr. Holmes, which occurred at his residence in East Liberty, to many friends occasioned some surprise, as he had been ill but a comparatively short time, and it was not generally understood that serious results were apprehended.

The deceased was married, and leaves a widow and several children. He enjoyed a large acquaintance in business and social circles, and was respected for his talents and virtues wherever known. For several years, we believe, he was not actively engaged in business, having acquired a competency, that rendered it possible for him to retire and spend the last years of his life in cultured ease. He was a man of fine, aesthetic tastes and literary acquirements, being a frequent and acceptable contributor of prose and verse to the press of his own and other cities.

In business life he was noted for his methodical habits and strict integrity, and in the social circle he was prized as a genial companion, an intelligent observer of the world, a warm hearted friend and a Christian gentleman, both by profession and practice. He thus gathered around him friends from all ranks to whom his demise will be a cause of genuine sorrow.

THE TAXPAYER'S UNION.

A Rather Interesting Session Yesterday Afternoon—Report of the Committee on Public Works—Interrogatories to be Fired at Legislative Candidates—A Warm Discussion Regarding Mr. Mackey—The Financial Problem.

A regular weekly meeting of the Central Taxpayer's Union was held yesterday afternoon at the usual place, corner of Sixth avenue and Wood street, in the Bank of Commerce building. The minutes of the previous meeting was read, corrected and approved.

On motion of Mr. Ewart, Mr. J. M. Pryor was added to the Committee on High School.

Mr. Jones, who was appointed to present to Mayor elect McCarthy, the resolution passed by the Union desiring to know if he would serve for a salary instead of receiving the enormous fees that now accrue to the position, reported that he had fulfilled his duty but that Mr. McCarthy had made no reply to the resolution. The report was received and filed.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Judge Mellon presented the report of the Committee on Public Works. It is very lengthy and voluminous, and states that the wages paid to laborers in the different departments of the city government, such as firemen, police, and street and road laborers are higher than some contractors pay. The Committee is of the opinion that such a course is wrong, as it holds forth an inducement to men to get positions on city works and thus brings them within the control of "rings," and makes them available in the election of "ring" candidates. Complaint is also made, in the report, of the liberality shown to contractors, and of the expensive and unnecessary bridge improvements in the rural districts. Attention is called to the declaration of the unconstitutionality of the Penn avenue act, notwithstanding which bonds are still being issued for improvements in accordance with its provisions. This is deprecated, and the assertion is made that the general tax-payers will have to pay the bonds, instead of those whose property is improved. The report also expresses the opinion that there is apparently more consideration paid to the expediency of issuing additional bonds than of caring for the constitutional limitation of the city debt. It is suggested that the matter be taken to the Supreme Court and also that the subjects discussed in the report be referred to legal counsel for such action as the necessities of the case require.

A second report relative to the new Water Works was submitted, but Judge Mellon stated that it had not yet been fully considered by the committee, and as he preferred having a further consultation in regard to it the report was referred back to the committee. It says that much greater economy than now prevails could be exercised in the construction of the new Water Works.

For the purpose of bringing the first report before the Union for discussion, Mr. Powers moved that it be adopted.

ITS PUBLICATION INJURIOUS.

Mr. Norton thought the publication of the report would create distrust in the public mind relative to the payments for the improvements that are being made under the Penn Avenue Act, and that it would also lead capitalists in other cities, who have invested in bonds, to refuse further aid in extending the improvements, resulting in the stopping of the work that has already been commenced. He said if the improvement of Brownsville avenue, on the South Side, was stopped, it would be an act of injustice to the residents of that neighborhood.

Captain Ward expressed a strong opposition to allowing contractors and commissioners any further extensions. He felt an inclination to accommodate Mr. Norton, but the principles of the Taxpayers' Union are such that an accommodation of that nature could not be extended to any of its members. The Union was organized with the object of preventing extensions or kindnesses to contractors or others at the expense of the city.

Mr. Norton said that no extension was asked for by the contractor for Brownsville avenue, who would have his work done within the time specified by the contract. If irregularities have arisen in the East End, and contractors in that section want extensions, Mr. Norton did not desire to have the blame laid on the South Side.

MISFORTUNE AND BONDS.

Mr. O'Keefe favored the publication of the report and said that all our misfortunes are the result of the issuance of bonds. If the Penn avenue act is unconstitutional, the sooner the great body of taxpayers know it the better.

Mr. Riddell thought the previous speakers manifested undue excitement in discussing the report, which was unnecessary, as the document only asks that the opinion of counsel be obtained, concerning the legal points raised. Regarding the Penn avenue act, Mr. Riddell reiterated the opinion previously expressed, that the improvements being made under it would not be paid for by the man whose property is benefitted, but by the general taxpayer.

After an address from Dr. Keyser, who thought the publication of the report would be beneficial, it was adopted.

THE SINEWS OF WAR.

Mr. King wanted an expression of opinion from the members of the Union as to the best method of raising money to carry on the war that has been commenced.

Mr. Ewart wasn't altogether pleased with the idea of the members of the Union paying out money for the benefit of all the tax payers of the city. He thought collections should be made outside of the Union.

Dr. Gallagher thought the appointment of collections in the different wards, as was suggested, would do more to kill the Tax-payers movement and render it unpopular than all things else combined. The wealthy men of the Union he thought should furnish the greater part of the funds.

The matter was finally referred to the Finance Committee.

LEGISLATIVE QUESTIONS.

The following was offered by Mr. Powers:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by the chair whose duty it shall be to interrogate the respective candidates for the State Legislature as to their views and intentions on the following points:

1st—Are you thoroughly in accord with the objects of this Association?

2d—If elected will you faithfully endeavor to secure the passage of a law fixing the compensation of Municipal and County officers at a reasonable stated salary, and excluding all fees and perquisites, so far as the constitution will allow?

3rd—Are you pledged directly or indirectly, in case you are elected, to vote, or use your influence, for any particular person for United States Senator?

4th—Will you in any event vote for Robert W. Mackey for the United States Senate in case he be a candidate?

The interrogatories, and particularly the last one, evoked a warm discussion, Mr. Powers, in support of them, making a bitter speech attacking Mr. Mackey, but in a political way of course.

Mr. Riddell moved to lay the last interrogatory on the table. He thought the Union should pay exclusive attention to municipal affairs and not dip too lively in state politics. However if it intended to hop into the arena of the United States Senatorship it might as well also discuss Cæsarism, Imperialism, Louisiana politics and various other national issues. In regard to the attack of Mr. Powers on Mr. Mackey, the speaker deemed it unnecessary and without justification and thought that a stab at Mr. Mackey from the Union would be gratuitous indeed.

ALREADY SOLD OUT.

In reply Mr. Powers said that he intended no personal thrust at Mr. Mackey. Judge Mellon rather liked the discussion that sprung from the interrogatory, but favored Mr. Riddell's motion to table it. Mr. Powers claimed that the Union has the right to interrogate any candidate for the purpose of learning how they stand on certain questions, and that it was not his purpose to prejudice any one against Mr. Mackey in case he should be a candidate for United States Senator. Mr. Powers also stated that he had learned that a candidate for the Legislature from this city had already sold himself and promised to advocate Mr. Mackey for United States Senator. In view, however, of the fact that the last interrogatory did not meet with the unanimous support of the Union he would withdraw it.

The remainder of the document was then adopted and Messrs. Powers, Frew, O'Keefe, Pryor and Johnston were appointed as the committee of five provided for by the first resolution.

On motion adjourned.

ALLEGHENY STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Ordinances for Sewers, Plank Walks, Repairs, &c.

The Street Committee of Allegheny Councils, met last evening, Mr. J. C. Patterson in the chair.

Ordinances were ordered to be prepared and submitted to Councils as follows: For main sewer in Monterey street, from Jackson street to West Jefferson street. For main sewer on Federal street, from Pearl street to Sampson street. For grading and paving of Irwin avenue, from Washington avenue to the north side of Centre street. For plank walk on Woodland avenue, from New Brighton road to Shady avenue. For plank walk on Shady avenue, from Woodland avenue to McClure avenue. For lateral sewer on Ferry Lane, from Kerr street to Hughes Alley.

The City Engineer was directed to receive proposals for repairing the Western District main sewer, which was damaged by the flood.

The contract for repairing the mouth of Juniata street was awarded to James Orr for the sum of $350. It was agreed to report adversely to the passage of the ordinance for the grading and paving of Ley street. The contract for a seven and a half feet sewer along the old city line, from Church alley to Concord street, was awarded to Charles Faulkner for $21,385. The contract for an eighteen inch sewer on East and Mill streets, from an alley near the Junction of East street and Madison avenue main sewer, was awarded to Wm. T. Dunn & Co. for $1,215.

The committee then adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to visit Howard and Boyle streets.

SCIENTIFIC.

Every particular part of the human body has had its average natural properties, constituents, quantities, &c., reduced upon scientific principles to a standard of nearly definite proportions in health.

This serves for the more correct elucidation of disease by comparison and measurement of the deviations from the healthy standard. Thus the average proportionate constituents of the blood in health being reduced to a standard, any considerable deviation from this standard quality of the blood, is disease.

The same in the urinary excretion; the average natural proportionate constituents of the urine in health form the standard, any considerable deviation from which basis, either in proportion or constituents, exhibits disease.

This latter is a practical fact which we are daily demonstrating at our office (No. 132, Grant street) and which any one can have proven to his entire satisfaction by sending a standard specimen (morning's urine) for scientific analysis and examination.

If we fail to detect the "morbid conditions," if any, or to determine the nature of the disease or the organs affected, as the lungs, liver, stomach, brain, kidneys, womb, &c., there shall be no charge made.

Send us a vial of morning urine by express (not by mail) with name, age, and P. O. address of the patient, and we can send the necessary medicines.

DRS. OLDSHUE.
132, Grant street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The case involves the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the steamer "Lockwood."

····Officer Crone, of Allegheny, last evening about 9 o'clock, found an empty satchel, with a hole cut in one side of it, lying under a seat in the West park. A few paper collars and other small articles were found near. It is supposed that some person stole the satchel, and after emptying it threw it away.

····An order issued by the Department of State in January, 1873, says, among other things, that a civil officer of the Federal Government can perform unpaid service in local or municipal Fire Departments, thus settling the legality of the election in this city of Mr. Thos. Pender, who is a U. S. detective.

····Yesterday afternoon a boy attempted to stop a horse belonging to Dr. Wallace, that had broken out of its stable and was running down Federal street, Allegheny. The horse as it passed him kicked and knocked him some distance, but did not hurt him very much. Officer Noble succeeded in capturing the animal.

····Yesterday evening Mr. Wm. Gang, Deputy Warden of the County Jail, while sculling on the Allegheny river, accidentally upset his boat and he was spilled into the water. Mr. Gang is not by any means a Lilliputian in size, and when he found himself in the water, instead of swimming, he got on his feet, turned his boat right side up and pushed it ashore.

····The Liquor League has distributed a circular among wholesale and retail dealers, calling upon them to unite and work for the success of their friends in the coming campaign. The circular sets forth the importance of the coming struggle, inasmuch as the Legislators are to be elected for two years. The circular is urgent in its tone and points out the necessity for thorough organization and work.

····Dr. E. H. Combs, of Morgantown, W. Va., has received intelligence that his brother-in-law, Capt. James Shaw and his son, aged seventeen years, with a party of several others, had been murdered by Indians, in Kansas, a few weeks ago. The parties resided in Leavenworth, and were out on a surveying expedition when they were overtaken by a band of Cheyenne Indians, and the entire party butchered.

····On Wednesday evening Alderman Bolster, of Allegheny, had before him a young man named Adam Hoerr, charged with fornication by Christina Fischer. After the hearing the Alderman gave both of them a good, fatherly lecture, and advised them to settle the difficulty by marriage. After talking the matter over they agreed to it, and the Alderman proceeded to tie the knot, which was done to the eminent satisfaction of all concerned.

....Last evening about 8 o'clock a horse attached to a barouche, in which were seated several ladies and gentlemen, became frightened on Ohio street, near the Penitentiary, Allegheny, and ran off up the street. It was checked, after it had passed Federal street, without doing any further damage than kicking in the dash-board, and frightening the occupants of the vehicle very badly. The horse and barouche belong to Mr. A. D. Smith.

····The will of August Ganghaus was yesterday filed in the Register's office. Decedent bequeaths all his estate to his wife; Barbara Ganghaus, who, with his children, Peter and Amanda, are appointed executors. Also the will of Jacob Schneider, who bequeaths all his property, real and personal, to his wife Elizabeth, on condition of her remaining single, and at her death, to his eight children. Mrs. Schneider is appointed sole executrix.

····On Monday evening a Bohemian ball was given at Wacker's Hall, on Ohio street, Allegheny, and during the evening two Bohemians named Anton Gosnau and Andrew Kusur had a quarrel about a girl, during which Kusur struck Gosnau in the face with a beer glass, inflicting a severe wound. Gosnau has since then made information before Alderman Bolster, charging Kusur with aggravated assault and battery. The accused has been arrested and held in $500 bail for a hearing.

····It is said that a reward of $1,000 will be offered for the arrest of D. S. Haney, the teller of the Commercial Banking Co. of McKeesport, in whose accounts a deficit of $9,000 has been discovered. The bondsmen of the missing man are Robert Haney, his father, James O'Neil, his uncle, Jno. W. Patterson and W. W. Hunter. The bond is for the sum of $10,000 being more than sufficient to meet the amount of the defalcation. Haney is a young, unmarried man but his father and mother feel very sensibly the blow that has been inflicted upon them.

····Frank Brown, the fireman of engine 738, who was so badly injured in the "run-in" at Williams Station, Pittsburgh, Washington & Baltimore Railroad, (Connellsville route), 18 miles west of this city, on Tuesday morning, died at half past ten o'clock of the day on which the accident occurred. His remains were brought to Pittsburgh, where he resided. He was an unmarried man and, we understand, lived with an engineer of the same road in Pittsburgh, having no relatives here. The other parties injured by the accident are getting along very well. The company will sustain a heavy loss by the great damage to three engines and the "wrecking" of the cars. Through travel has been resumed by all kinds of trains.

The Connellsville Railroad.

Those of us who have occasion to travel, or have business in connection with this road, are under great obligations for its successful management. We have noted all along the great and gradual change which has been going on ever since the road fell into its present hands. Great thanks are due from the people of this region of the State to the Company now managing the road. We can now travel on it without fear, and have our business with it conducted without delay and disappointment. It has already created a feeling of kindness not only to the railroad company, but for the citizens of Baltimore, to whom we are largely indebted for these advantages and comforts. We are not generally disposed to bestow praise except we can do it conscientiously. But in such cases it becomes a duty. But with all the care and attention of the company and others, the road could not thus be so effectually managed, except by a master hand in the daily superintendence of the road and its rolling stock. This is in the hands of Mr. E. K. Hyndman, and to his skill, industry and attention, we are especially and particularly indebted. We offer him this commendation from no interested or selfish motives. We speak as much for the general public as for ourselves. In putting Mr. Hyndman on this road, the Baltimore & Ohio management must have selected from their best, ablest and most competent of its corps of employes.—American Standard

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

United States District Court.

[Judge McCandless on the Bench.]

John Moyers, Westmoreland county, bankrupt. Argument on a motion for an injunction against certain execution creditors, by Messrs. Lewis and Turney for, and Messrs. Marchand, Bailey and Burgwin, against the same, and preliminary order set aside and injunction refused.

J. B. Sneathen & Co., vs. Stalb & Co., bankrupts. Argument on the motion for an injunction against Isaac Jones by Mr. Montooth for and Todd against the same, and injunction granted.

Edward H. Yeager, Pittsburgh, bankrupt. Rule granted on Christian Yeager, Elizabeth E. Yeager, Jno. Freeman & Co., and the East New York Shoe Company, to show cause why their several claims should not be stricken off and disallowed, and the same referred to Register Shaffer for examination and report.

Samuel Newton, Allegheny, bankrupt. On petition presented an order was made directing the assignee to sell at private sale certain property of said bankrupt.

George Nickel, a merchant of Fayette county, filed a petition for the adjudication of himself in bankruptcy. Referred to Register Harper. The creditors' claims amount to about $100,000. A large majority of the creditors are Pittsburgh merchants.

On motion of Joel L Bigham, Esq., Silas A. Kline, of Greensburg, was sworn and admitted as a member of the bar of the U. S. Courts.

District Court.

(Judges Ewing and White on the Bench.)

In the case of Wm. Harbaugh vs. Columbus Coleman was settled upon payment to Harbaugh by Coleman of $816 20. This was a suit to recover rent due for use of trustle and coal yard near Sewickley station.

In the case of D. B Williams vs. Bigley et al., reported yesterday, the jury found a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $2,106 24.

The case of Striepecke vs. Mueller, an action to recover for repairs done to the house of defendant, is still on trial before Judge Ewing.

The ejectment case of A. F. Gabler vs. Irwin I. Boyd, is on trial before Judge White. This section concerns a certain tract of land on the South Side. A verdict was rendered for the plaintiff, with six cents damages and costs, subject to the opinion of the Court upon the question of law reserved.

The jury in the case of W. H. Brown vs. the steamer "Picket" is still out, and a verdict seems no nearer than the first day they retired. They have been out since Monday afternoon, and it is said are no wise anxious to be discharged, but seem rather to be enjoying it.

Common Pleas Court.

[Before Judges Stowe and Collier.]

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Edward Cummens, lodged in jail by Alderman Bolster through the instrumentality of a "capias clause," was brought into Court on a habeas corpus, and his release ordered on the grounds that the commitment was defective.

Mr. Hunter was appointed receiver in the case of Edward Kennedy vs. Peter Carled.

In the matter of the special election in Verona borough, the election of W. W. Greer, was confirmed by the Court, and a certificate ordered to be issued.

In the matter of Isaac Dreyfoos vs. the Pittsburgh and Ormsby Railroad Company, the Sheriff's interpleader was filed, and the Sheriff ordered to proceed with the execution, &c.

The Court then adjourned until Saturday.

Criminal Court.

(Judge Sterrett on the Bench.)

Commonwealth vs. James Fox, charged on oath of his wife Anna Fox with assault and battery. Fox was charged with having attacked and beaten his wife because he was provoked at the testimony given by her in a case in which Fox was tried. Found guilty.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Joseph Fox and Edward Jones, charged with assault and battery on oath of James Fox, the jury found both defendants guilty, but recommended Fox to the mercy of the Court.

James Smith, indicted on oath of P. Ingoldsby for larceny and receiving stolen goods, in stealing a watch and a breastpin from the prosecutor, plead guilty on the first count.

Amos Sleicup plead guilty to the charge of larceny of some hides and butcher's knives, on oath of Elijah Harris.

Augustus Conway, indicted on oath of Chas. Bambach for larceny and horse stealing, was found not guilty.

The same defendant was found guilty of assault and battery on oath of the same prosecutor, but was recommended by the jury to the mercy of the Court.

The next case taken up was that of John Smith vs. Joe Trump and Maggie Butterfield. Maggie put in her appearance and was represented by Mr. Coyle but Trump has not been arrested and consequently was not in attendance. John, it will be recollected, came to this city fresh from San Francisco, with a lining of gold pieces to his pockets. Falling into evil company on Thursday night John was relieved of his gold to the extent of twelve twenty-dollar gold pieces. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

James Leary plead guilty to the larceny of two trunks the property of Jane Barclay. The offense was committed on July 3d last. When called up for sentence he told the Judge a very rambling and contradictory statement, which the Court said was intended to mislead it. He was sentenced to the Penitentiary for two years and seven months.

James Donovan, Barney Karns, and Andrew McGraw, were placed on trial for felonious assault and battery on oath of Thomas P. Potts. The alleged offence was committed on Sunday morning, June 7th, at the house of ill fame on Watson street, kept by Minnie Watson. It will be remembered that as a consequence to the defendant's visit to this house and the alleged assault upon Potts, a man named Edgar, was fatally wounded by Potts. After a jury had been empannelled, Mr. W. Moreland addressed the jury for the prosecution and court adjourned.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Those who have not yet enjoyed the pleasure of witnessing Sam Sanford's old time minstrels should not forget that their engagement is drawing to a close. A change of programme will be made to-night and for the Saturday matinee an immense bill has been prepared.

LAFAYETTE HALL.—Prof. De Long announces that he will commence his season on Thursday, October 1. The season for masters and misses will be inaugurated on the afternoon of Saturday, October 3, by a grand matinee, to which all former pupils are cordially invited. Ladies' and gentlemen's evening classes will commence at 8 P. M., on Thursday evening, October 1st.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—The Agricultural Fair of the Monongahela Driving Park Association will take place at Monongahela City, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Four thousand dollars are offered as premiums for excellence in the various departments. There will be races each day for which the fastest local horses are entered, as well as many from a distance. Three trains will run each way every day on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston Railroad, and two packet boats will also leave daily. The fare has been fixed at the low rate of fifty cents.

DARING ROBBERY.

A Drunken Man Relieved of a $1,300 Check.

One of the harpies who make their headquarters around the elevator, on Wednesday night victimized a stranger named John Murphy, but fortunately the victim was able to give a sufficient description of the thief to lead to his arrest. On the night named Mr. Murphy was standing in the vicinity of the Rush House, very much under the influence of liquor, when he was approached by a man who offered to take him to a hotel. Murphy consented to go with the stranger, and was led some two blocks up Penn street, when his newly made friend went through his pockets and stole all the money he had, amounting to about $10 and a check, made payable to bearer, for $1,300.

Immediately after the robbery Murphy informed the police of the facts, and yesterday morning he made an information before Alderman Kreuter against one John Bright, who had been seen lurking about the Rush House and who answered the description Murphy gave of the thief. A warrant was issued and Constable Hyer, about five o'clock last evening, arrested Bright. When in custody he denied all knowledge of the occurrence, so far as he was concerned, but stated that a man named Allen had committed the theft. Alderman Kreuter committed Bright to jail for trial at Court, and when searched by Warden Smith the check for $1,300 was found on his person.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

The Case of George Nickel, of Fayette County—Full List of Creditors—Amount of Indebtedness—Local Firms the Sufferers.

In the Office of the Clerk of the United States District Court the papers in the case of George Nickel have been filed. Mr. Nickel has lately been carrying on business at New Haven, Fayette county, and was formerly of the firm of Miller, Nickel & Co., Port Perry. He was engaged in the general merchandise and coal shipping business. Some time since, becoming embrassed, he filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and the papers filed are those provided for by the bankruptcy laws and are quite voluminous. His failure is said to have been the result of the recent suspension of Senator George H. Anderson.

A list of creditors is given, and as a large number of these do business in this city, the list is published with the amount of indebtedness to each:

Pure Starch.

When starch is pure, it is free from sourness and is purely white. Inferior starch has a golden or yellow tinge, the color of flour, indicating the presence of gluten (a color not desirable in one's linen), or is sour and musty. It is absurd for the laundress to cleanse and bleach and then discolor linen with impure golden or yellow starch. Duryeas' "Satin Gloss Starch" is snow white, perfectly pure, and the most economical starch known. WFW

MILITARY REUNION.

Gathering of Geary's Brigade—The White Star Boys in the City—Banquet Last Night—The Toasts and Responses.

The reunion of the White Star Brigade, the old command of the deceased Governor Geary, commenced in this city yesterday afternoon and concluded last night at Ellanova Springs, on the P. Ft. W. & C. R. R. The brigade consisted of the Twenty-eighth and One Hundred and Forty-seventh Regiments, Pennsylvania Volunteers, and Knap's Battery. In the afternoon a meeting of the organization was held at the Robinson House. It was pretty much of a business character, looking toward keeping unbroken the ties that bind the boys together, and in the speeches that were made pleasant memories of the war were brought up, and numerous incidents pertaining to the camp and field were related and laughed over, while sorrowful words were spoken for those who long since died. Among those present were General Hector Tyndall, Col. John P. Nicholson, Major D. B. Hilt of Philadelphia, Capt. J. Addison Moore of Harrisburg, Lieut. Chapman, Col. Craig of Lehigh Gap, John P. Duffey of Philadelphia, besides quite a number of others. At half past five o'clock the boys took the train for Ellanova Springs and passed just such a pleasant and happy evening as old soldiers know how to do when they get together. The Committee of Arrangements consisting of Capt. Thos. Hamilton, Major Hoffer, Jesse H. Lippincott, Capt. J. J. McGill and Capt. W. C. Himar had thoroughly performed the duty intrusted to them and everything passed off pleasantly. The music during the banquet was furnished by the Keystone Cornet Band of Allegheny, Mr. Frank Teufel, leader.

The toasts and responses of the evening were as follows:

Army of the Cumberland.—Col. Aull.

Army of Georgia.—Dr. E. Goodman, of Philadelphia.

Antietam, September 17th, 1862.—Captain Newmyer.

The Rank and File of the Army.—General H. Tyndall, of Philadelphia.

28th Regiment Pa. Vols.—Mr. Hilt.

147th Regiment Pa. Vols.—Sergt. Lumbard, of Selinsgrove, O.

Knap's Penna. Battery.—Captain McGill.

The Memory of our Dead.—Standing and in silence.

The Private Soldier.—Mr. Duffey.

OIL DEALERS INDIGNANT.

The New Freight Rates—The Dealers in Pittsburgh Are Opposed to the New Schedule—The Matter to be Discussed To-day.

The circular issued by the railroad companies, a few days ago, in reference to a new schedule of freight on oil does not meet with much favor in Pittsburgh. The universal sentiment among the oil shippers here, is that the new schedule is adverse to the interests of Pittsburgh and is a flank movement intended to crush the pipe line. The officers of the railroad companies say that the new arrangement was made so as to give refiners in all the large districts equal advantages. The refiners here say, however, that while the plan looks fair on its face, it is more in the interest of Cleveland than any other point, and that it will be another serious blow to the oil trade in Pittsburgh.

The feeling is quite strong and the expressions among the oilmen yesterday were of a warlike character. The new schedule was pretty well distributed yesterday, and the dealers had an opportunity to consider it.

For the purpose of getting a concert of action, a meeting of the refiners will be held to-day at the office of the Central Refining Company. The action of the meeting, if the general sentiment yesterday was a criterion, will be of a decidedly hostile character.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing the issue of bonds for the purpose of redeeming matured or maturing indebtedness assumed by the city in the consolidation under the Act of Assembly of 2d April, 1872.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Select and Common Councils assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the City Controller be and he is hereby authorized and directed to prepare and issue bonds in the name of the City of Pittsburgh to an amount not exceeding two hundred and ten thousand dollars, in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to provide the manner of increasing the indebtedness of the municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof, approved 20th April, 1874.

SEC. 2. Said bonds shall be registered bonds in sums of one hundred, five hundred, one thousand and five thousand dollars each, in such proportions as the Controller may determine, payable in thirty years at or after date, with interest, at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in gold principal and interest, payable at the office of the City Treasurer in the City of Pittsburgh or at the Banking House of Townsend, Whelan & Co. in the City of Philadelphia. They shall be signed by the Mayor, and countersigned by the City Controller and sealed by the Mayor with corporate seal of the city. The principal and interest of said bonds to be provided for as directed by the provisions of said Act of Assembly of 20th April, 1874.

SEC. 3. Said bonds shall be sold by the City Controller, under the direction of the Finance Committee, at not less than their par value, and the proceeds paid into the City Treasury and applied by said Controller, under the direction of said city to the redemption and payment of matured or maturing indebtedness as assumed by the City of Pittsburgh in the consolidation under the Act of Assembly of April 2d, 1872.

SEC. 4. The City Controller shall keep a correct account of the bonds sold in pursuance of the provisions of this Ordinance, all moneys received and paid for or on account thereof and shall cancel any bonds and coupons or other indebtedness paid out of the proceeds of said bonds and make proper entries thereof upon his books. All bonds so issued shall be registered and countersigned by the Bond Clerk.

Patent Automatic Water Closet, which is Anti-freezing and Inodorous. It is the most durable Closet in the market, for the following reasons: It will not freeze. It is strictly self-acting. It does not cause any re-acting and bursting of pipes. It is free from all obnoxious odors, and therefore will improve the sanitary condition of our cities. It has no valves to get out of repair and leak.
With our valuable improvement obnoxious cesspools in yards are dispensed with, as direct communication is made with the sewer pipe.
The public are invited to call at our salesroom, and examine this valuable improvement in operation, where its great advantages can be seen at a glance, or send for circular containing full particulars.
